Only A 'Miracle' Can Save New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City, battling for months to avoid default, had $453 million in debts due today but not enough money to pay them.

"Only a miracle will save us," said City Council President Paul O'Dwyer. "and I don't expect that miracle."

Urgent phone calls were placed to the White House, the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board as Mayor Abraham Beame fought to stave off default.

"I called the White House to inform the President of the change of events," said a weary Beame early today. "He was asleep, but we left a message with the officer on duty."

White House officials told Beame that Ford was aware of developments.

The crisis worsened Thursday night when the trustees of the city teachers' retirement fund refused to reaffirm a commitment to put $150 million in pension funds into a $2.3 billion state plan aimed at keeping the city from default through the beginning of December.

"This action, if not reversed, will place the city in imminent jeopardy of default," Beame said.

Other meetings were scheduled later today in hopes of reversing that decision.

The city is unable to raise sufficient cash on its own because major banks, unhappy over the city's fiscal policies, have refused to extend additional loans.

After the trustees' vote, the mayor met with city officials and a law firm retained to advise the city on the consequences of default "to implement action — if necessary — to assure the continuity of essential city services."

City and state officials, in a report prepared several weeks ago, forecast a series of severe consequences of default, including unrest by persons on welfare who failed to receive subsistence checks and strikes by unpaid city employes and, ultimately, a default by New York state.

In addition, there have been forecasts of a national and international monetary crisis resulting from a New York City default.

'I CALLED THE PRESIDENT'

ABRAHAM BEAME

Mayor, New York City

Asked about other sources of quick cash, the mayor said, "At this point I don't know of any other sources. Unless that (the trustees' decision) is reversed, the city will be in a defaulting position."

In other developments:

— The executive board of the Central Labor Council, an umbrella group representing 1.2 million union workers in the city, voted unanimously Thursday not to endorse any move by city employe unions for a general strike as a protest against additional envisioned layoffs.

— Deputy Mayor Kenneth Axelson called the Treasury Department today seeking a 90day, $150 million loan — money to make up for the missing teachers' pension investment.

— Officials of the Municipal Assistance Corp., the state agency created to help the city avoid default, contacted the Federal Reserve Board to advise it of the proceedings.

Meanwhile, in Albany, The state's highest court today unanimously upheld the right of the state comptroller to invest $250 million from state employe pension reserves in state notes to help rescue New York City from default.

The decision by the Court of Appeals came only hours before the comptroller planned to complete the controversial transaction.

Comptroller Arthur Levitt had proposed the transfer of funds to provide the state with cash to fend off default by New York City on $439 million in maturing notes.

A ruling by the Court of Appeals supporting Levitt's right to make the investment was viewed as critical to the success of a $2.3 billion financial arrangement to provide the city with operating cash through early December

However, city officials were trying desperately Thursday to raise another $56 million in private funds needed to trigger the state loan to meet the note obligation.

Levitt had previously revealed that the pension funds transaction would be at a record high interest rate of 8.875 percent, with the interest charge to be passed on to the city.

The previous high rate for state borrowing was 8.70 percent, negotiated by Levitt on a similar notes sale to an underwriting syndicate of New York banks Sept. 15.

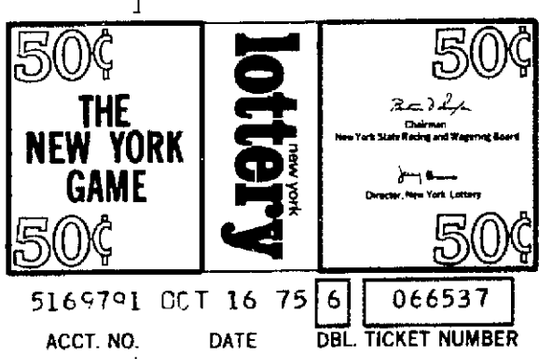
The Court of Appeals argument to block the note sale was offered by a lawyer for the Westchester County chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association.

The CSEA local sought to have Levitt removed as trustee of the $7.1 billion retirement system and barred from making the investment.

Arthur H. Grae, attorney for the CSEA chapter, contended that Levitt was placed in a conflict of interest position as both overseer of the pension fund and state comptroller because he served as both buyer and seller of the notes.

The Police Conference of New York State Inc had participated in the suit through the Appellate Division stage, but had not appear before the high court because it had failed to file a motion to appeal in time to participate in the final arguments.

Area Lottery Sales Reported Down



By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

"Some people are not going to buy and some people are going to buy less."

That reaction from Norm Sherry, proprietor of the Broadway News Shop, the city's major outlet for lottery tickets, was fairly representative of vendor reaction following revelations that the state had in fact been playing with a different set of rules with what it calls "The New York Game."

It was learned this week that it really didn't matter if all the tickets on any given lottery were sold or not: the state threw them in the hopper anyway with the reported result that "the state" was the winner in 17 major drawings, on $4.2 million in "winning" tickets that were never sold.

"Some of the customers are angry about it," says Sherry, whose Broadway store sells about 1,800 tickets a week. "I don't blame them," he adds. Sherry figures his sales are off "30 maybe 35 percent this week."

In Ellenville, it's a somewhat different story. "People are complaining realizing it's a gyp but they're still buying them," says Mal Milton of the Ellenville Corner Store.

See Editorial on Page 6

Milton says he sells about 400 lottery tickets a week (the vendors receive three cents a ticket) although he doesn't see any significant change yet "It's down a little bit," he said.

Up in Saugerties, it seems to be business as usual at the Paramount Pharmacy as far as the lottery is concerned. "I don't think there's been any change," said Don Vourg. "People are still buying them. It might have dropped off a little but it's not any great amount." Paramount sells about 100 lottery tickets a week.

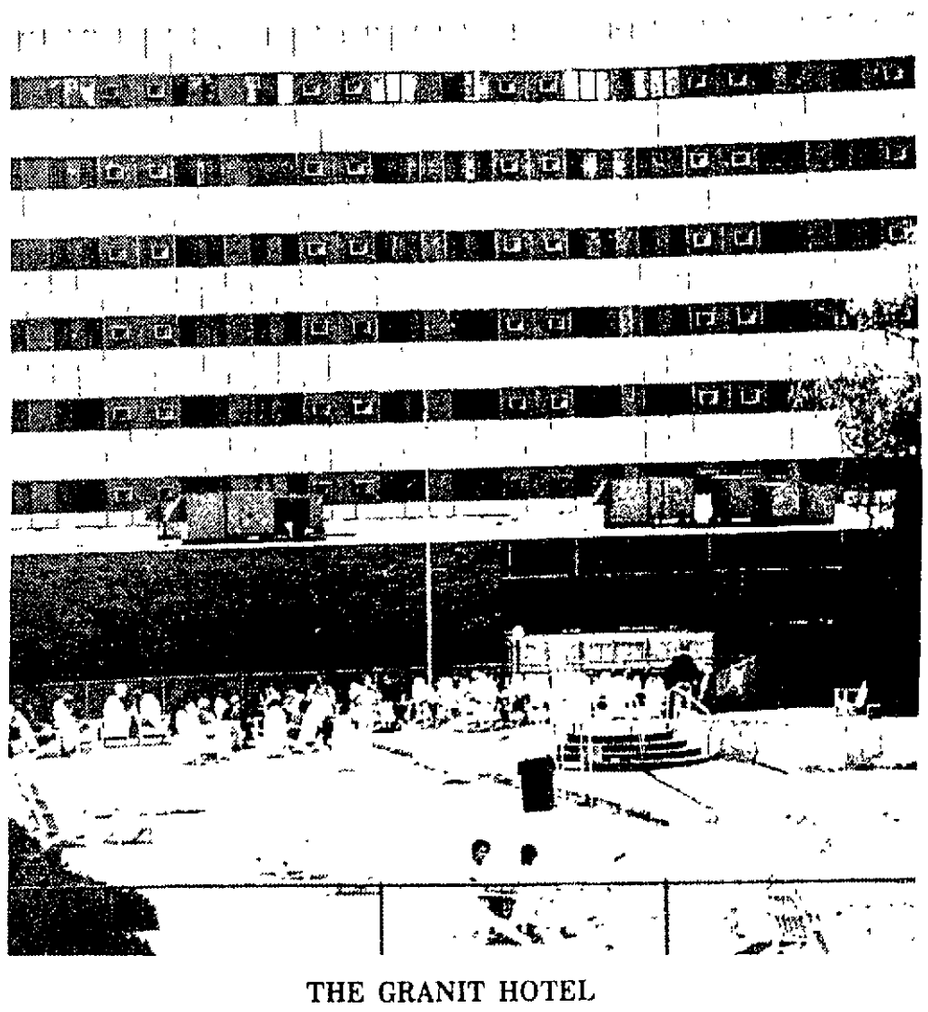
Back in Kingston, Jack Williamson, proprietor of Jack's Stationery Store on Broadway (formerly Otto's), appears philosophical about the whole thing.

"We're not getting that many sales now," says Williamson. "I think I sold four yesterday," he sells an average of 50 a day.

Williamson said he was "really shocked" although he indicated he didn't have a great deal of faith in the system to begin with. "I always thought there was something wrong with it," he said. "I wasn't sure until I saw it in the paper. With Watergate and all. anything can happen in government."

And finally, "I think it'll be temporary. They'll forget about it just like everyting else."

The owner of the Broadway News Shop thinks differently. "They have to come up with a new lottery," says Sherry. "They have to get some of those characters out of there and get someone who knows what they're doing and give the people what they want. That's it in a nutshell."



THE GRANIT HOTEL

A Year Later . . . Murder Still Unsolved

THE VICTIM

SOUGHT

By Matt Spireng

ELLENVILLE

State police are seeking an unidentified young Puerto Rican man for questioning in connection with the grisly slaying nearly one year ago of 16-year-old Diana L. Schoonmaker.

The man, who police say was seen in the company of the dead teenager some 13½ hours before her body turned up at the Ellenville landfill site, is not necessarily a suspect in the still unsolved murder, according to investigators.

"We are attempting to identify the male seen with Diana in an effort to further trace her activiites prior to death," explained Ellenville State Police Senior BCI Investigator James Fitzgerald. Authorities have released a composite photograph of the man.

According to Fitzgerald, the gap between the time Diana's body was found at the landfill site and the time she was last seen alive has been narrowed to 13½ hours.

It was at about 11 a.m. on Friday, Oct. 18, 1974 that an Ellenville employe working with a bulldozer at the landfill site spotted an arm protruding from a cardboard drum at the bottom of a hill of trash. At first he thought it was a mannequin. It was not.

What the workman discovered was the body of the Napanoch teenager. She had been stabbed numerous times and her throat had been cut from ear to ear in what Fitzgerald describes as "one of the most vicious, brutal homicides ever to occur in Ulster County."

For nearly a year, state police have poured thousands of man-hours into their attempts to trace Diana's whereabouts prior to the discovery of her body and to identify and capture her killer.

According to Fitzgerald, investigators have now traced Diana to Greenfield Park, near Ellenville, where at about 9:30 p.m. on Oct. 17, 1974, she was seen with the young Puerto Rican male.

While finding the man might not bring on an immediate solution to the murder, it apparently could help narrow the time gap police are seeking to close.

Police are also still seeking to find the murder weapon and the actual scene of the bloody killing.

"We don't believe the dump was the murder scene as there was very little blood there and the body was almost completely drained of blood," one investigator said shortly after the discovery of the body.

Investigators have also not been able to trace the drum in which the body was found. One official explained that they are not even certain whether the body was brought to the dump in the drum or placed in the drum at the dump.

During the course of the lengthy, demanding investigation there have been several suspects questioned, and numerous polygraph (lie detector) examinations have been conducted.

At one point, Paul John Knowles. 28. who has been linked to a cross-country spree of murders that claimed at least 20 lives, was considered a strong suspect in the Schoonmaker killing. But he has since been virtually ruled out, according to Fitzgerald.

Knowles was killed last December during an escape attempt in Georgia. He has been linked to the Oct. 16, 1974 murder of a Connecticut housewife and her daughter near Hartford. He was believed to have passed through the Ellenville area between then and Oct. 18, when he was reportedly in Georgia

One of the major thrusts of the investigation now is apparently to trace Diana's whereabouts after 9:30 p.m on Oct 17, 1974, and toward that end authorities are asking anyone with possible information to call Ellenville State Police at 647-5410.

"We haven't by any means come close, we hope, to eliminating the potential chances of solving this case," Fitzgerald said.

Police Raid Art Cinema

HIGHLAND

Search warrant in hand, Town of Lloyd Police and state police under the direction of Investigator Robert Ferrigan of the District Attorney's office entered the Highland Art Cinema Thursday night, confiscated two X-rated films and arrested the projectionist and cashier on obscenity charges.

First Assistant District Attorney Michael Kavanagh said today that the raid was the result of about a month of investigation which he indicated came about as a result of public outcry in the Highland area over the theater and its showing of alleged pornographic films.

The search warrant was issued Thursday night by Lloyd Town Justice Gary Palmer who viewed the double feature showing before issuing the warrant.

There were about 40 people watching the film when police had the house lights turned up and began confiscating film projectors, the films—"S.O.S." and "Sweet Agony"—tickets and $337.50 in receipts.

Arrested in the raid were the projectionist, Steve Cardinal, 51, of Newburgh, and the cashier, Gordon DePew, 59, of Highland. Both were charged with second degree obscenity, a misdemeanor, and were given appearance tickets for a Saturday date in court. Further arrests are anticipated, according to Kavanagh.

TM Meditates Purchase; Granit Leasee Unsure

ACCORD

A spokesman for the Granit Hotel in Accord said today that it is "doubtful" that the popular Ulster County resort will be sold to the Transcendental Meditation (TM) movement.

"Negotiations were underway," said Miriam Rosenthal, a Granit leasee, "but there appear to be matters that cannot be straightened out. I doubt very much if there will be a sale."

Her comments were prompted by reports today that the Students International Meditation Society, Inc. —which guides the worldwide Transcendental Meditation movement—had reached a tentative agreement with Granit owners to purchase the 320-room hotel. The reports indicated that the facility would be used as an advance instructionl center for the more than 8,000 TM teachers located in the United States.

Mrs. Rosenthal would not elaborate on the details of the negotiations that apparently took place between the Granit and TM representatives, nor would she comment on what roadblocks might have been encountered in the proceedings "Since some discussions are still underway, it wouldn't be proper," she said.

Since the TM movement is listed as a non-profit organization, its ownership of the hotel would remove the facility from the tax rolls in the Town of Rochester, and would likely reduce revenues raised through Ulster County's sales tax.

"There's no doubt that the sale would hurt the taxpayers," said Rochester Supervisor Wilfred Neff "We've already had far too many properties taken off the tax rolls."

The Granit's assessed value is $435,300. The hotel itself paid $46,149 in property taxes to the town this year.

But Mrs. Rosenthal said the possibility that thd town would lose tax revenues through the sale of the hotel to a non-profit organization was not a consideration during negotiations

The Granit is currently owned by the New York Business Development Corporation, a consortium of state banks that purchased the facility in May for $1.8 million after the former owners had filed for bankruptcy. Mrs Rosenthal and three partners, all from New Jersey, have a lease agreement to manage the hotel

In addition to the Granit, it was reported that TM representatives are also negotiating for the purchase of the 300-room Windsor Hotel in South Fallsburg (Sullivan County), and that a sale agreement has already been reached. TM already owns the former Waldemere Hotel in Sullivan County, and uses it as an academy for its instructors.

The TM movement, led by Maharishi Mahesh Hogi, instructs persons in the science of meditation, which is said to lead to a more relaxed and peaceful state of mind and body The maharishi visited his Waldemere facilities this week.

Teachers Ask for Probe

(By UPI)

The striking Spencerport Teachers Association has asked State Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist to open "an immediate investigation into conditions at schools" in the Rochester suburb.

Teachers' strikes also continued for a third day Thursday in the Buffalo suburb of Orchard Park, the Niagara County district of Starpoint, and the Rockland County community of Nyack.

Spokesmen for the Spencerport teachers made their request in a telegram to Nyquist, saying they were seeking the state probe in response to various complaints from students and parents.

"We've received complaints that some students were being locked in classrooms and some substitutes were physically abusing students in order to maintain control," said Jeffrey Coutier, a New York State United Teachers official assisting the teachers in their walkout.

"An ongoing educational program is lacking" in Spencerport's seven struck schools, Coutier added.

About 160 of the 220-member teachers' union remained on picket lines despite a temporary State Supreme Court order barring the strike. The district was next expected to seek a permanent injunction against the walkout.

District schools remained open although attendance was lower than usual, officials said. Certified substitutes and nonstriking teachers were manning the classrooms.

The district has about 4,800 students.

In the other strikes:

— A temporary restraining order remained in effect in the Orchard Park dispute. About 6,000 pupils at seven schools were being affected by the walkout.

— No new negotiations have been scheduled in the Starpoint strike, where schools remained open with substitutes and volunteers manning classrooms. About 3,000 students were affected.

— In Rockland County, most of the 200-member Nyack Teachers Association remained off their jobs. The district has 3,700 pupils in six schools.

Gas Allowance For His Driver?

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Despite the fact that he had a chauffer-driven state car at his disposal, the superintendent of Great Meadow state prison received an allowance of 1,500 gallons of gasoline for his personal car during fiscal 1973-74, according to state auditors.

A state audit released Thursday also criticized the administration of the maximum security prison at Comstock in Washington County for misuse of sick leave by retiring employes

In addition to the large gasoline allowance, the report said, J. Leland Casscles, who was superintendent of the prison at the time of the audit, was also given a food allowance averaging $163 a week.

Casscles was recently transferred to the Taconic Correctional Facility by Correctional Services Commissioner Benjamin Ward.

"Excessive sick leave use" by several employes prior to their retirement cost taxpayers "about $400,000 in overtime payments for covering staff during the year ended July 31, 1974," the auditors reported.

A review of the work records of 30 correctional officers and civilian employes who retired that year showed that they used an average of 72 days sick leave in their last 130 working days, the report said.

Ward announced Casscles' transfer Aug. 18, along with the movement of two of his top assistants, on the recommendation of a department management team.

However, the department said the transfers were ordered because of "low morale among the uniformed and civilian staff and a lack of communication between the staff and the inmate population."

Patty Called 'Inspiration' to SLA Members

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Symbionese Liberation Army documents say Patricia Hearst's kidnapers were amazed at how quickly and enthusiastically she joined them, including asking to take part in their group sex life, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

She was so cooperative they suspected she was faking to cover up escape plans, but later accepted her as "an inspiration" to the group, one letter said.

Her kidnapers quarreled at first over whether it was correct for revolutionaries to have sex with a "prisoner of war," fearing she might someday claim she was forced to take part.

"But Tania swiftly made clear to us that this could not be the case," and she joined the band's multipartner sex life even before her status changed from hostage to SLA member, the report said.

This was "partly due to her own initiative, but also because of our growing love and respect for her," the document said.

She was told, the document said, that she was "free to function sexually" but would be governed by the group's rule against monogamous relationships, requiring "a commitment to develop a personal relationship with the whole cell ... not just with one or two individuals..."

"Sex was an integral part of cell life," the document said, but the feminist members felt they must "smash the dependencies created by monogamal (sic) personal sexual relationships," and banned members from having sex with only one partner. "There was no structure to follow, no rules, no systemized rotation of partners," the document said.

The Times said it obtained some of the SLA writings found in the San Francisco apartment where William and Emily Harris, Miss Hearst's SLA companions, were captured by the FBI.

They included "what appears to be a portion of a series of answers to questions submitted to the SLA by an unnamed person," the Times said, along with a handwritten statement on the feminist problems facing female members of the SLA and a typewritten letter to Miss Hearst.

Investigators believe Mrs. Harris may have written the feminist documents, the newspaper said, and the letter to Miss Hearst appears to be in the writing style of William Harris, perhaps sent to Miss Hearst when they were separated as fugitives.

"Right from the beginning, you amazed us because you were strong," the writer told Miss Hearst. "Even as a kidnap victim you were matter-of-fact about the weird situation.

"We dug it but we were also leery. We thought maybe you were plotting against us and all your talk, sense of humor and cooperativeness was just a ploy while you tunneled out through the floor ... I won't ever forget the inspiration you were to all eight of us..."

Miss Hearst's attorneys have based their defense on allegations that she was "brainwashed" by the SLA's harsh treatment early in her captivity.

Three Share Physics Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Professors James Rainwater of the United States and Aage Bohr and Ben Mottelson of Denmark won the Nobel prize in physics, the Swedish Academy of Sciences announced today.

The three won the coveted prize for their study of the structure of the atomic nucleus.

It said they discovered the "connection between collective motion and particle motion in atomic nuclei and the development of the theory of the structure of atomic nucleus based on this connection."

Rainwater, 58, is in the physics department of Columbia University in New York.

Bohr, 53, is from the Nils Bohr Institute in Copenhagen and Mottelson, 49, also resides in Copenhagen.

Mottelson is currently on a study trip in China.

On Thursday prizes for medicine were awarded to three Americans —David Baltimore, 37, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Howard Martin Temin, 41, of the University of Wisconsin, and Renato Dulbecco, 61, of the Imperial Cancer Research Laboratory in London —for their discoveries "concerning the interaction between tumor viruses and the genetic material of the cell."

Bohr is the son of Niels Bohr, who shared the Nobel prize for physics in 1922 with Albert Einstein, for "investigation of the structure of atoms and the radiation emanating from them."

Women + Men = Cuddling

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Navy thinks enrolling women at the U.S. Naval Academy next fall will foster cuddling between the sexes on campus and upset military discipline, an assistant secretary of the Navy said Thursday.

"It will be the law of the land and we will comply but I do think it was a mistake to have women at the service academies," said Joseph T. McCullen Jr., assistant secretary for manpower and reserve affairs.

McCullen said midshipmen at Annapolis "are not looking forward to having women at the academy. They are afraid the rugged discipline will be compromised, and I must say that I share that concern."

For example, he said in an interview, it would be upset discipline if male and female cadets were seen holding hands and cuddling on campus, as they do on most college campuses.

The Navy should not be forced to accept women at Annapolis, he said, because while the law requires the Navy to accept them the law also prohibits the Navy from using women on combat vessels.

"In the end why do we have a Navy, why do we have a Marine Corps. It is to fight a war," McCullen said.

"I think we should have a separate academy for women where you train them for staff roles rather than to have them in an enviroment to train combat leaders," he added.

There are no women at Annapolis this year, but McCullen said the Navy plans to include 66 in its incoming class of 1,300 next September.

He said the women will be called "midshipmen" and subject to the same code of conduct and classroom standards as the men. But, he said, the physical training program will be changed to accommodate the physical differences between men and women. For example, he said, the women "will do modified pullups."

HEW Rules Set For Challenge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brigham Young University, one of the nation's largest private schools, intends to challenge new federal regulations dealing with sex discrimination and run the risk of losing its federal aid

The Provo, Utah, school will announce in newspaper advertisements Saturday that it disputes the legality and constitutionality of parts of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's Title IX rules dealing with sex discrimination Compliance notices from colleges and universities are due Sunday.

Dr. Dallin H. Oaks, president of the Mormon-run school, said the new rules "infringe on religious freedom"

"University policies are already consistent with the regulation in most respects and we fully support the goal of equal opportunity for men and women in education and employment," Oaks said in a telephone interview "We expect to do all in our power to support and implement this goal"

"Where we believe the regulations are unconstitutional or illegal and where they prohibit or interfere with the teaching or practice of high moral principles, we will not follow them."

HEW's jurisdiction over federal money flowing to the campuses includes aid to students. Any institution that does not comply with the Title IX regulations places those funds in jeopardy, under to the law.

Oaks said payments to veterans and federal-backed loans to students could be affected BYU enrolls 25,000 students and several thousand get some form of federal aid.

If federal aid is cut, Oaks said, he probably would take the challenge to the courts.

"We just think some of these regulations are very illegal," he said.

One regulation says a donor of scholarships cannot designate that the funds go to only men or only women

"This is a violation of due process," Oaks said "We look on this a depriving of property without due process"

Oaks said his university will not follow regulations prohibiting inquiries into or actions based upon the marital or parental status, pregnancy or termination of pregnancy of present or prospective students or employes

The school, sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, teaches and enforces strict adherence to the highest Christian standards of morality and condemns abortion and out-of-wedlock births

Bird Safety

Gerald A. Smith, studying orinthology at SUNY Oswego, tests a cardboard silhouette of a Cooper's Hawk. Smith places the cutouts in the window of the glass bridge behind him to frighten migrating birds before they crash into the window, and has managed to cut bird deaths by 75 percent over last year. Smith, from Syracuse, says the Oswego campus is on the major North American flyway migration route. (UPI)

Ellenville Police Force Cut Again

ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville Village Police Department which at one point earlier this year consisted of 21 men is now down to 11 men following the failure of the board of trustees to come to a decision Tuesday as to whether it will rehire two full-time patrolmen, paid for by the village. Cuts in the size of the force and departures throughout the year had brought the numbers to 13.

The board's failure to reach a decision has resulted in the suspension of two full-time patrolmen who had been hired under the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) and whose salaries were largely funded by the federal government.

Ulster County Temporary Manpower Administrator Robert C. (Josh) Randall explained that the New York regional office had ruled previously that CETA personnel could not be substituted for regularly paid personnel. Randall said the board had been given until Tuesday to reach a decision as to whether it would rehire two regularly paid patrolmen laid off last April, thus enabling them to keep the CETA-funded patrolmen.

The board, which held an urban renewal meeting Tuesday night and reportedly discussed the police situation, did not reach a decision then.

Police Chief George Sheeley said his force "will do the best we can under these conditions."

Asked if he anticipated major problems, Sheeley said, "Any time you lose two full-time men it's going to hurt you someplace."

Manslaughter Charges Dropped

KINGSTON

An indictment charging Linda May Tubby with manslaughter in the July 1973 shooting death of her father at the family's Delaware Avenue home was dismissed Thursday by County Judge Raymond J. Mino on the recommendation of District Attorney Francis J. Vogt.

Miss Tubby, now 32, was tried once on the charge in 1974, but the trial ended in a hung jury. She had been accused of shooting her father Kenneth Tubby, 56, of 219 Delaware Avenue once in the head with his .38 caliber revolver as he slept on the morning of July 1, 1973. Tubby was employed as a security guard.

Of his request for dismissal of the indictment, Vogt said the jury in the 1974 trial had been deadlocked nine to three in favor of acquittal. "No new evidence has been discovered since that time and I have no reason to believe if the case were retried that the result would be any different," the DA told the Freeman.

According to Vogt, Miss Tubby, who suffers from epilepsy, is currently confined at the Hudson River State Hospital and that she is expected to remain there "for quite some time" since she requires constant care.

The wife of the dead man, Mrs. Myrtle Tubby, was the chief prosecution witness in the case. She had been at her home on the morning of the murder, and during the course of the case it was at times implied by her daughter's defense attorney that she might have killed her husband.

"In fairness to Mrs. Tubby," Vogt said, "she submitted voluntarily to a polygraph test and it was the opinion of the examiner that she had nothing to do with the death of her husband.

"Her value as a witness, however, was considerably diminished as a result of certain statements made by her (to investigators) subsequent to the trial which contradicted certain statements made by her during the course of the trial," Vogt added.

Asked if the statements might lead to a perjury charge, Vogt said, "The statements would certainly destroy her credibility as a witness but were not of sufficient materiality to warrant further action."

GERRYMANDERING

ger·ry man der (ger'ı-man'dĕr, jer'ı-man'dĕr), v.t. [< Elbridge Gerry, governor of Massachusetts when the method was employed (1812) + salamander, from the shape of the redistricted Essex County]. 1. to divide (a voting area) in such a way as to give an unfair advantage to one political party. 2. to manipulate unfairly; falsify to gain advantage. v.i. to engage in gerrymandering. n. a redistricting of voting districts to the advantage of one party.

. . . Webster's New World Dictionary

IS A REPUBLICAN INVENTION

IT'S A BICENTENNIAL FACT:

Two hundred years ago Elbridge Gerry signed the Declaration of Independence. He then set about dictating his own ideas of freedom as Republican Governor of Massachusetts . . . districting the state exclusively to his party's advantage.

Today Gerrymandering is forbidden by many state constitutions. And, the United States Supreme Court has ruled that citizens may challenge in federal courts any unfair electoral districting for state legislatures. But what about the Ulster County Legislature? Here the Gerrymander is alive and vicious. A sad situation for a legislative body whose very creation was intended to provide Ulster residents with equitable representation.

For the second time in two elections the Republican majority has forced self-serving reapportionment, playing "musical chairs" with towns whose citizens can, at best, only hope their legislators will have sufficient integrity to represent them fairly despite varying social, economic, and geographic conditions within new districts they had no voice in creating. One-man, one-party dictatorial rule even squashed a Democratic proposal that a county-wide referendum give Ulster citizens the right to determine their area's representation. In Ulster County there is no possible legal action against Gerrymandering. Your only recourse is at the polls where you will have an opportunity to elect Democratic legislators who are committed to fight for your right to be represented.

State Civil Service Report Praises Progress of City Group

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The State Department of Civil Service has completed its inspection of the (Kingston) Municipal Civil Service Commission, leaving the department with some glowing compliments in contrast to a highly critical report two years ago.

"Much of the progress in civil service administration during the period covered by the survey—November of 1972 to June of 1975— can be attributed to the diligence of the secretary (Margaret Gallagher), the active participation of the commissioners—Mrs. Elizabeth Keller (the president), Samuel McCoubre and John J. Hogan— in the day to day operations and the increased cooperation being obtained from the agencies," concluded the state.

Despite the state giving the city a rating of "generally satisfactory," it found little fault with the numerous areas it surveyed.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has jurisdiction over not only city employes (including the city laboratory) but also the Kingston Schools Consolidated district. The Commission has jurisdiction over more than 1,000 persons, 470 of whom are in the competitive class.

The civil service commission is the city's (and the school district's) major employment and recruitment agency and as such is responsible for determining job qualifications and classifications, advertising for job openings, reviewing and accepting applications, holding examinations for both new employes and for promotions. The commission also "certifies" payrolls which is its way of determining that persons are being paid the proper amount of money in their respective classifications.

In most of those areas, the state said the city had been doing its job and doing it efficiently unlike two years ago when local civil service regulations were largely honored in the breach.

There were some criticisms, though decidedly isolated, most of which local civil service officials say are being corrected.

"At times the commission has taken an excessive period of time to classify positions," notes the state. It notes a case of junior engineer in the city engineer's office where the persons served in a probationary period for over five years. "To have an employe serve full-time on a temporary basis for over five years without competitive examination represents a gross disregard for Civil Service law," admonished the state. The position has since been reclassified.

The report also noted instances of wide salary differences between persons of equal title. The mayor's secretary is paid $8,170 a year as a senior typist while the police chief's secretary earns $6,867 with the same title.

The report stated the commission's examination program has been "moderately successful" with the result that the competitive class positions filled on a provisional basis decreased from 16.2 percent in 1972 to 9.8 percent at the time of the examination of the department.

Indications are, however, that either city employes are not taking competitive examinations or they are not passing the ones they take. Of the 106 exams completed during the 31-month period examined, only 29 produced eligible lists containing over three names.

Mrs. Keller, the president of the board, was understandably pleased with the results of the state's examination. "We've worked hard to upgrade our records and procedures to comply with state requirements," she said. "I think this report indicates that."

Cites Highway

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig today cited the construction of a $712,000 section of the proposed Kingston North-South Arterial in Broadway west as one of the accomplishments of his administration during the past two years.

"This portion of the highway is of particular importance to me as a safety highway," Koenig said. "This two-lane, 12-foot wide cement concrete pavement (a total of 24 feet wide) now bypasses the Rondout Gardens complex. The portion of highway was completed in mid-summer and opened to traffic which now bypasses all areas of the gardens."

Koenig said he had been concerned for the safety of the many children and senior citizens of the complex and the heavy traffic through that area.

The mayor noted that the highway was constructed so that an additional two lanes could be built to the west when final construction begins. According to state officials, that construction could start as early as the middle of 1977.

The new arterial will carry traffic from south of Port Ewen to the town of Ulster, bypassing the city of Kingston. A new bridge will be built across the Rondout for that express purpose.

The mayor is calling the new road "a terrific improvement in the downtown urban renewal area and a great economic infusion of jobs for the related construction trades of the Kingston area."

Darling Scores Mayor

KINGSTON

Republican Candidate for mayor William K. Darling, citing the R. Bruce McLean case, accused the Koenig Administration today of "losing touch with the people and silencing those who disagree with them."

Darling was referring to a recent supreme court decision in favor of McLean, a volunteer fireman, overturning his March 17 suspension by the Board of Fire Commissioners for statements against the mayor and the commissioners, among others.

Darling accused Mayor Francis R. Koenig and his running mate Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo of "fostering" the long standing disagreements between paid and volunteer fire forces in Kingston.

While on that issue, Darling declared, "I challenge anyone to say that we here in Kingston have too many paid firemen and too much fire apparatus." Darling declared the city's fire defenses to be among the best in the state.

He took a similiar view on reports of overstaffing in the police department, as detailed in a city consultant's report in August.

Darling said he did not know how the New York City consulting firm hired by the city for its charter revision program came to its conclusions. "Perhaps the current administration and its efficient 'machine' can answer those questions too," he said.

"But we know their record for bringing the facts out into the cold light of day. They would rather hold secret meetings and backroom sessions in what has become an inefficient and ruthless attempt at governing our city," Darling said.

We Hold These Truths...
A Chronicle of America

October 18, 1775:

Having been held prisoner in Falmouth (now Portland), Maine, for several hours in May, British Captain Henry Mowat — with the eight-gun Canceau and the six-gun Halifax — returns for revenge. On the 16th he gives the townspeople two hours to evacuate so that he might "execute a just punishment", later, he postpones the bombardment. On the 18th the townspeople refuse to hand over the cannon, arms, ammunition, and hostages that he demands. So he opens fire. The cannonade lasts most of the day. When it is over, no American lives have been lost — most of the inhabitants having left on the 16th. But 417 buildings have been destroyed (including 139 dwellings); 11 vessels have been burned, and four captured. When General Washington hears of the incident, he deplores the "savage cruelties" as but the latest British "example of despotic barbarity."

Lottery's Future

W. C. Fields said it and New York State Lottery officials believed him. . ."Never give a sucker an even break." The New York Daily News has revealed that an excess surplus fund totalling $11 million was secreted into a general fund, and not earmarked for their original purpose as a major source of revenue for education. Instead this money was used for such luxury items such as legislator's lulus and limousines, the News reported. Serious as these charges are, however, the disclosure that lottery officials were bamboozling the public by announcing non-existent $250,000 Colossus Winners is even more damaging to the lottery's future.

The devious scheme, concocted at the expense of the money-paying players, allowed unsold as well as sold tickets to be picked by the computer. Consequently, at least 17 times since last Christmas the $250,000 prize was announced on a ticket that wasn't sold. Not only was the public being cheated, but the odds on winning the big prize zoomed from 3 million to one, to six million to one.

State legislators predictably have reacted to the scandal and are calling for the resignation of lottery chief Jerry Bruno. That Bruno must go is without question. A thorough investigation into the procedures of the administration of the lottery also must be conducted by Controller Arthur Levitt so that any schemes to deceive the public can be rooted out. The Freeman, for now, will continue to publish the numbers of the weekly drawing as an accomodation to our readers, but will keep a watchfull eye on reforms that are made, and hopefully speedily. If they aren't, printing the results of the weekly drawings will be discontinued.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Public Service or Personal Gain

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON— Sartorially splendid Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., has mastered the art of turning public service to private gain.

The tall, soft-spoken legislator has travelled the world at public expense. He augmented his congressional salary by pocketing much of the money given him for office supplies. And he's used his staff for personal matters.

In addition, Bevill's files reveal that his staffers in Alabama routinely note the race of constituents seeking help. A (B) is placed in the upper right hand corner of an index card if the person happens to be black. Apparently, the Alabama-based staffers had in mind treating the blacks as second-class constituents, but we have learned Bevill's Washingtonoffice handles them equally.

A former floor leader for Gov. George Wallace in the Alabama House, Bevill represents the industrial towns at the northern end of the state. His constituents are largely factory workers, whose average income is $6,350 a year.

Bevill himself has pocketed $7,000 in the last two years from his stationery fund. It is all perfectly legal. But most members of Congress use the money for office supplies.

The stationery fund also came in handy when Bevill wanted China and an electric typewriter for his wife, and a pocket calculator for his daughter.

The congressman assured our associate Jack Cloherty that all of the money taken from the stationery account was declared as personal income on his federal taxes.

Bevill does not have to declare, of course, all of the travelling he's done on Uncle Sam's nickle.

He's junketed to the Soviet Union, Chile, Panama, Hong Kong, Hawaii and Argentina.

The Argentine trip produced a problem for him. It seems that he bought a pony skin coat for his wife at a Buenos Aires antique shop. Two years later, the coat ripped. State Department cables reveal that the brassy Bevill returned the coat to the U.S. embassy in Buenos Aires. An embassy official quick-marched to the shop and got the coat repaired.

Bevill also uses his own staff to handle his personal business. One member of his staff recently put together a scrapbook of his son's basketball exploits. And another routinely handles such matters as paying a local boy for mowing Bevill's lawn in Alabama.

All of this might be overlooked if Bevill was laboring hard on behalf of his constituents. But we found that his travelling and his workouts in the House gym leave him little time for his district's problems.

He is absorbed, it seems, in serving himself.

Footnote: Bevill denied that he had an office staffer assembling a a scrapbook on his son, and defended his travel as necessary. He first denied that the (B) notation was used at all. When pressed, he said he was not sure what it might mean.

BEDTIME STORY: A confidential Senate memorandum lashes the pharmaceutical industry for knowingly peddling more than $34 million annually in "worthless" over-the-counter sleep inducers and tranquilizers.

Targets of the staff memo to Chairman Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., of the Senate Small Business Committee include such widely advertised drugs as Compoz, Sominex and Nytol.

The memo, prepared in advance of Nelson Committee hearings on Oct. 29 and 30, suggests the federal government ban false drug ads from the airwaves and other media.

"It is clear from the evidence we have acquired," states the memo, "that millions and millions of dollars are being spent in these worthless products . . . Over $34 million were spent in 1974 in sleeping aids alone"

Government studies show Compoz "was even less effective than a placebo (a 'sugar pill')" and that Sominex "was also ineffective," says the memo. Other drugs under the committee's scrutiny include San-Man, Sleep-Eze, Somnicaps and Sure-Sleep.

"In view of the lack of efficacy . . . and the possible dangers from some of the ingredients. . . it is curious that the Federal Trade Commission has not moved against the advertising of these drugs," said the memorandum.

FOOTNOTE: A major danger, the committee's past hearings have shown, is the impact TV drug advertising has in encouraging juvenile pill-popping. The Council on Children, Media and Merchandising found that each child in the U.S. is exposed to more than 1,000 televised drug ads a year.

JACKIE'S JOB: Jacqueline Onassis' new $200-a-week editing job at Viking Press has exposed her to a rush of books dealing with the assassination of her late husband, President John Kennedy.

With little understanding of her feelings, the authors apparently felt she would be the editor most likely to give them a break.

Similar books, most of them wild and amateurish, have also been flooding other publishing houses now that the Senate Intelligence Committee is probing the John Kennedy death.

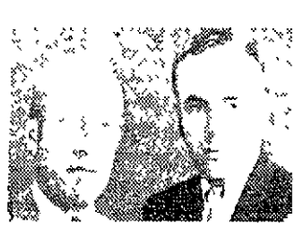
Inside Report

Kissinger Retains His Clout



By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON—President Ford's refusal to name a Pentagon representative on the new government board created by Congress to monitor trade with Communists nations reflects Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's continuing power to avoid policy moves that might offend the Kremlin

When congressional demands that Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger be named to the East-West Trade Board were raised at a board meeting, objections were quickly voiced by Kissinger's man in attendance: Deputy Secretary of State Robert Ingersoll. Inserting the Pentagon into non-military matters, Ingersoll asserted, would be inapporpriate and could be resented by Soiet leaders at a time of U.S.-Soviet negotiations on many delicate matters.

Kissinger has successfully kept Schlesinger off the board so far, pointing to two power realities: first, though his prestige in Congress has fallen drastically and his national popularity is slipping, Kissinger keeps the upper hand over Schlessinger in their continuous struggle over global strategy; second, Kissinger still dictates international economic policy despite challenges from Treasury Secretary William Simon.

But Kissinger may have to back down on East-West trade thanks to an outside force: Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the flamboyant chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. Such a retreat on an obscure issue would be seen by Kissinger's rivals as a first step in stripping international economics from his empire.

The East-West Trade Board was created by Congress as an amendment to the 1974 trade act pushed by Long, who feared dangerous Communist gains (especially in transferring technology) resulting from U.S. businessmen being outfoxed by Soviet bureaucrats. A sharp eye for the national interest in these deals would be kept by a board, as outlined by Long, consisting of several cabinet members—definitely including the Secretary of Defense.

On April 8, Mr. Ford named a board including nearly all of Long's nominations—but excluding the Secretary of Defense. On June 5, Long wrote Secretary Simon, the board's chairman, protesting Schesinger's ommission as a violation of congressional intent. In monitoring "transfer of technology vital to the national interest," wrote Long, ". . . it is extremely important that the Department of Defense advise the East-West Trade Board on the national security aspects of transactions."

Long got no argument from Simon, who would take a much harder international economic policy line than Kissinger. On July 2, Simon wrote Long supporting Schlesinger's membership. But when Simon brought it up at a board meeting, he ran into Ingersoll's objection—strongly seconded by Secretary of Commerce Rogers Morton, also a board member.

That was enough to blackball Schlesinger. Mr. Ford's closest aides cannot remember ever seeing anything about the East-West Trade Board, and it is extremely doubtful the President himself knew about the controversy,. On such matters, Dr. Kissinger's writ goes unchallenged within the White House.

But not necessarily on Capitol Hill. Clearly nettled, Sen. Long on Sept. 18 wrote Simon, again insisting Schlesinger be named to the board. "I understand that you agree with this view," said Long, "but that State and Commerce are obdurate in their desire to exclude the Defense Department from participating on the board."

Considering Long's key committee chairmanship and frequent support of administration positions, his wishes may not be defied a third time. For its part, the Pentagon is eager to move deeper into East-West trade questions.

But more than trade is at stake. Simon is unhappy about the State Department keeping him away from U.S.—Soviet grain talks and would like to restore the Treasury to its pre-Kissinger eminence in international economic policy-making. Lining up against Kissinger on the trade board is, therefore, a symbolic shot across the State Department's bow.

Moreover, excluding Schlesinger from the trade board fits a larger pattern. Kissinger wants the Pentagon confined to strictly military pursuits and has kept it out of strategic arms limitations (SALT) and military aid negotiations with Israel and Egypt. Backing down on trade board membership would be a small retreat from overall policy.

Even if such a retreat is ultimately forced, however, Kissinger performed remarkably in this backstage Washington scuffle. For nearly a year, while the President apparently stayed aloof, Kissinger had ignored a congressional mandate, defied a senior Senator, and staved off the Defense and Treasury Secretaries to make sure his own power and his own concept of detente were not diluted even in a tangential bureaucratic dispute.

For the Love of Milly

ON THE ROAD, ELMIRA, N.Y.—A morning mist hugs the places between the russet and yellow hills. Somewhere in it Sully is lying on his back snoring, his bunioned feet sticking out from under the blanket.

Sully is a favorite character because he is predictable. He is cynical an suspicious all the time. His hair is snowy, his Mazda nose and tiny eyes are reminiscent of W.C. Fields, but age has not mellowed him.

Everybody, according to him, works a racket. Nobody does nothing for nobody no time. He distrusts babies. They work the crying jag racket. All lawyers are crooks. Doctors play a guessing game. Clerics put on a poor mouth in the name of God.

A long time ago, he owned a bar. He slicked his hair, bought a hot diamond ring and a matching stickpin and blinded the ladies with smiles and a fat wallet. He had a figure like an Easter egg, but he could fight, laugh at his own jokes, and seduce the innocent before they seduced him.

He denied ever doing a good deed. Sully wouldn't trust a bartender who didn't ring up every beer. And yet, when Walter, his day man died, Sully felt afraid. There was something about the waxen stillness of death which paralyzed him.

Sully asked me to be at his side when he paid his last respects. He looked down at the body, walked over to the widow and said, "I'm sorry for your trouble."

She wept. He said, "I'll tell you this. Walter looks a lot better now than when he worked for me." She nodded. "He has two weeks vacation comin," Sully said, "so here's the money."

The widow was overcome by honesty. She opened her purse. "As long as you're so nice about it," she purred, "here are the keys to your saloon." Two of his varicose veins popped.

Sully had other bartenders. All crooks, of course. Then he hired a middle-aged lady to cook hamburgers for the customers. She was a sweet smiler named Milly. She cast no net for Sully, but he fell anyway.

Milly worked hard. She split the profits with Sully. She went to church. She never argued with the boss, even when he asked, "What happened to those five hamburgers I saw in the icebox?"

He began to take her for drives in his big car. He flashed his diamonds at her. She remained composed, a woman beyond reproach. Sully tried all the wiles. None worked.

One day, in desperation he proposed marriage. Milly said, "You better give it a lot of thought." "You were married once before," he growled. "Got a picture of your husband?"

She took it from a wallet. Sully studied the face and said, "Thanks. I hate to be slugged by a stranger." He proposed again and again. Milly said that she would see.

He said that if she would marry him, he would build a big house for her on a hill. She reminded him that he was too cheap to stake a desert rat to a cool beer. He squirmed. He pleaded. He married Milly.

It was a good union. Milly ironed the wrinkles in his character. He had what he thought was the last of the good women. They lived in a small house at the foot of the hill. The big house was not built.

After a few years of security, Milly felt abnormally fatigued. She went to a physcian. He conducted a lot of tests. The doctor gave Milly a prescription for pain. He said she worked too hard.

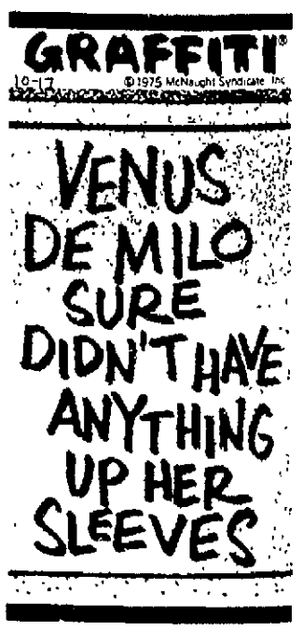
The doctor called Sully in. Milly had terminal cancer. Worse, she suspected it. Sully would have to find a way of comforting her. "I'm going to die. Right?" she said. "You're going to outlive me," he said, "and steal all my money."

She didn't believe it. So Sully did the impossible. He called an architect and a contractor and began to build the big house up on the hill. Milly smiled.

"I'm sorry I didn't believe you," Milly said. "But I do now. I know you would never build that house to live in it alone. Honest, I feel better already."

Sully put a lot of money in that house. The taller it grew, the shorter the days became for Milly. She died believing she had nothing to worry about.

He sold the place. Somewhere far behind that morning mist is a character I should have found. He's whiter, older, and he snores until noon...



New Contraceptive Mates IUD, Pill

CHICAGO (UPI) — A newly patented contraceptive device combines features of the pill and intrauterine devices — and is safer and more effective than either method, a Chicago gynecologist says.

Dr. Antonio Scommegna, inventor of the "Progesterone IUD," said Wednesday the device has been tested in 6,000 women during the last four years and proved 99 percent effective.

The Food and Drug Administration is considering applications to place it on the U.S. market, he said. It already has been approved for sale this year in Britain, Canada, Mexico and West Germany.

Scommegna, chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Michael Reese Hospital, developed the device under a Ford Foundation grant.

The contraceptive is fashioned after an IUD except it is smaller, more pliable and "eliminates some of the pain and bleeding" of the IUD, Scommegna said.

It is implanted in the uterus and is designed to prevent pregnancy by slowly releasing a progestational agent identical to the hormones released from the human ovaries after ovulation.

"Progesterone is the first naturally occurring substance that has been used in birth control," Scommegna said. "It is manufactured in the laboratory."

Birth control pills contain synthetic progestin, which often causes uncomfortable drugrelated side effects, he said.

The amount of progesterone released daily by the new device is much less than the amount of synthetic progestin ingested by women who take the pill, he said, and side effects are further reduced because the progesterone is localized in the uterus

In use, the "Progesterone IUD" should be replaced at least once a year.

Application of the device is much simpler than standard IUD's which have come under FDA scrutiny, he said.

"We've never had a perforation that I know of, which is a fairly common serious problem with IUD's," he said.

He said 80 percent of the women who tried the device were still using it at the end of a year, and only 60 of the 6,000 became pregnant.

A Michael Reese announcement said Alza Corporation of Palo Alto, Calif., has been granted an exclusive license to market the product. The company said it hopes to begin marketing in the United States in the near future.

Inhibiting Cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Illinois research team has found that infection by a virus that causes benign bone tumors in mice appears to inhibit the development of cancerous tumors in the laboratory animals.

The work deals with one type of cancer in a certain strain of mice but may be important in understanding the normal behavior of tumors, according to Drs. Chris A. Reilly and Miriam P. Finkel of the Argonne National Laboratory.

There is as yet no proof that any type of cancer in humans is caused by a virus, but cancer viruses have been isolated from several species of laboratory animals. Many scientists believe therefore that some human cancers eventually will be linked to viruses.

The Argonne experiments, reported this week at an international meeting in Copenhagen, found that mice infected with the benign tumor virus 24 hours before receiving the malignant virus developed fewer malignant bone tumors and lived longer than those not given the benign virus first.

The apparent interference, however, did not work the other way. That is, when the malignant virus was given to the mice first, it did not inhibit the development of benign tumors.

Because of this, Dr. Finkel said in a telephone interview, an immune reaction is probably not the reason why the benign virus appears to inhibit the development of tumors.

"We think maybe it is competition for the same cell," she said. "This is something that is under invesigtation now.

"One can speculate on the importance of this kind of interference, if it holds up of course, and that is maybe if a cell is infected with a so-called benign virus, it inhibits the demonstration of the appearance of a malignant virus. One can speculate along these lines but that's really sort of far out."

Abundant Antifreeze This Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Antifreeze will be abundant, and maybe cheaper, this year because the market for permanent press clothes has been pinched by the recession.

But if the economy continues to recover, there could be another shortage for the winter of 1976-77.

Last fall and winter some areas had shortages and the year before panic buying made things even worse for those worried about keeping their auto radiators and engines from freezing.

This year, ethylene glycol, the stuff from which antifreeze is made, has been available because not as much of it is going to its other main use — the manufacture of polyester fiber.

Polyester fiber is used in making suits, shirts, blouses and other products. Americans have not been buying as much of these things because of the recession.

Which means plenty of antifreeze.

But, there is no way to expand the basic supply of ethylene glycol, which comes from crude oil and natural gas. Union Carbide, which makes "Prestone" brand antifreeze, said the situation could become a shortage next year if the economy perks up, consumers start buying more clothes, and more of the raw material gets diverted back to polyester fiber producion.

"We have substantially increased production," said a Union Carbide spokeswoman. "We expect that sufficient supplies will be available."

Dow Chemical Co., makers of "Dowgard," said, "The consumer will not be as hard pressed to find it as he was last year. It's certainly not the disaster it was last year."

A Dow official also said antifreeze may be selling for from $1 to $2 less per gallon than last year. Prices last year were up to $5 or even $6 per gallon — more than double those in the fall of 1973.

Crawford Gains Nomination

OLIVE

Incumbent Republican Supervisor Oliver Crawford has received his party's nomination to seek another term in the Town of Olive.

At a recent GOP caucus, the Republicans also nominated the following candidates for election Nov. 4: councilman, four years, incumbent Everett Cook and Robert Adsit; town clerk, incumbent E. Lee Denman; town justice, Robert J. Wilkins; superintendent of highways, incumbent Marcel Maier; tax collector, Mildred Carlsen; assessor, four years, incumbent Terence Carle, assessor two years, John T. Molloy.

Two contests were held between Molloy and William Davis with Molloy emerging the winner in the race for the assessor two-year nomination and Ms. Carlsen named the caucus and vice chairman of winner over her opponent, Marge Trowbridge who sought the tax collector's post.

Following a tally of the votes, both Davis and Trowbridge threw their support to the winners. June Davidson, chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, called for and received the unanimous support of the Olive Republicans for the entire Olive GOP slate. Calling them fine candidates, she urged their election feeling they would do the best job for good government in Olive.

Would Open Meetings

KINGSTON

Janet C. Yallum would like to open all legislative committee meetings to the public.

The Democratic candidate for county legislature, District 5, said in a press release that she plans to introduce a resolution to this effect if elected.

She explained, "Most of the important work of the legislature goes on within its committees. Legislative resolutions are dealt with there, killed, or voted out onto the floor . . . It's time to turn on the sunlight behind the closed doors."

Mrs. Yallum added that for certain deliberations such as budget or personnel discussions the committee could vote to meet in executive session, with a majority vote necessary for passage.

She also criticized the system under which the chairman of the legislature has the right to appoint minority members to specific committees. She pointed out that in most legislative bodies the minority leader assigns minority members to committee seats, allowing them to determine how their individual expertise can best be used. She asked for a change in the legislature's rules to allow the minority leader to assume this function.

Wager Seeking Highway Post

TOWN OF PLATTEKILL

Lester A. Wager Sr. of Modena is seeking the position of superintendent of highways for the Town of Plattekill on the Independent line in the upcoming November elections.

Having served previously as highway superintendent in the township, Wager says he is again seeking election because he feels money from the highway budget is not being properly used and because town roads have not shown any significant improvement during the past four years under the present superintendent.

A 60-year resident of the Town of Plattekill, Wager has been a member of the Modena Fire Department for more than 40 years and is now a member of the board of fire commissioners. He and his wife have owned and operated Wager's Store in Modena for 25 years.

Hopefuls at Odds

KINGSTON — Candidates for alderman in the Third Ward seem to be at odds concerning the number of times the Common Council meets a month.

Joseph Markle, the Republican, says he supports a proposal to have the council meet in regular session twice rather than the once a month now dictated by charter.

Markle's Democratic opponent Frank DiPietro suggests that Markle is not familiar with the charter that requires one meeting a month but allows either the mayor or five aldermen to reconvene a meeting. He says that Markle is trying to "confuse and misguide" residents of the ward on that issue.

Markle also said he would be a "responsive" alderman if elected. DiPietro says he would be "responsible" to all residents.

DiPietro concludes that Markle's support of more council meetings — Markle says the council is bogged down — implies haste and DiPietro says he is against haste. "Haste causes waste and waste costs money," he said.

Michael Hawkins, an independent candidate for alderman in the ward, has not commented on either issue.

Hinchey Speaker

TOWN OF ROCHESTER — Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey (D-101st Dist.) addressed the Town of Rochester meet the candidates night at Tessler's Hotel recently, speaking out on the economic policies that favor "the oil companies and other big business and neglect the interests of those that work for a living."

He said it was "absolutely essential" for people to participate in politics and express their point of view if they are to reverse the dangerous economic trends of the time," according to a release from the town Democratic club.

Harold Brown, chairman of the county Democratic Party, expressed the hope that popular will would be advanced through the candidates' election.

Democratic town candidates are: Wilfred Neff, supervisor; David Clark, superintendent of highways, Olive Wynkoop, town clerk; William Mitchell, four-year assessor, Roland Smith, two-year assessor; Carl Speigel, town justice; A. Brian Lawrence, councilman.

Candidates Forum

A candidates forum for a Sunday afternoon is to be sponsored by the League of Women Voters of New Paltz at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 26 at Town Court Chambers on Plattekill Avenue. County legislative and town council candidates will speak, and will be available to answer questions from the audience.

Dunn Heads Rochester GOP Lineup

Vincent Dunn (r) will head the Republican slate for town election in Rochester Nov. 4 as nominee for supervisor. Three running mates are (l-r) Guy Funkbeiner, town justice; Allen Chamberlain, two-year assessor; Ed Lamon, councilman.

Memorabilia

Interest in the new Delaware and Hudson Canal Museum has drawn more memorabilia to the society. Dorothy Spar, preservation chairperson, reports a gift from an anonymous donor of a wealth of documents, concealed in a locked drawer of an old desk pertaining to Lock 49 on the D&H Canal. Among the almost 200 items are contracts for lock-tenders, foreman's time books and time sheets as well as boat permits, school tax statements, supply requests and a poster showing rates of tolls. The documents are presently being appraised and catalogued and will be exhibited later by the society in its new museum. The D&H Canal Historical Society is currently conducting a fundraising drive to purchase the former St. John's Episcopal Church in High Falls as a permanent home for its many artifacts and memorabilia of the canal.

LIFE TODAY

Mini revues upstairs at The Beef House presents (L-R) Thom Cranna, George Young, Ken Thompson and Roberta Powell in addition to six more singers and a talented pianist. It's a touch of Broadway every Thursday through Sunday night. Under the direction of Jack Lawson of UCCC, the revues get underway around 6 p.m. (Freeman photo)

Committee For Ethnic Supper At Temple Emanuel Is Named

Plans are being formulated and committees set up for Temple Emanuel's Ethnic Delicatessen Supper that will be held Wednesday, Oct. 29 at 243 Albany Avenue. The first seating will be at 5:30 p.m. After the 5:30 seating people will be served as they arrive. Reservations must be made for the 5:30 seating by contacting Mrs. Albert Spiegal or Mrs. Mort Cohen.

Some of the foods to be served are pastrami, corned beef, tongue, knishes, rye bread, stuffed derma, sour pickles and homemade salads and dessert.

Rita Riffeburg is coordinating the dining room including set-up and serving. Assisting serving will be Sisterhood members and KNFTY (the Temple youth group.) Rochelle Katz and Estelle Kurland will be hostesses for the evening.

Miss Ruby Markson and Mrs. Bea Wetterhan will be participating in preparation as usual.

Traditionally many candidates for election have attended the supper providing an opportunity for informal discussions with the voters in this area.

There will be a cake booth again this year at the supper featuring home baked goods.

Ten five pound kosher style salamis will be awarded during the supper.

Tickets for the supper will be available at the door.

Mrs. Bea Goldberg and Mrs. Helen Kletske co-presidents of Sisterhood, invite the public to attend.

It's a Touch of Broadway As Cabaret-type Entertainment Comes to Town

By Dorothy A. Narel

KINGSTON — Cabaret type entertainment has been introduced at a popular in-town restaurant. Sal Provenzano, owner of The Beef House on Broadway and St. James Street, has seen this type of format successfully entrenched in other parts of the state, up through New England and, as we all know, it's "the thing" in New York City social spots.

"Why not in Kingston," was Provenzano's thought.

It didn't take long for him to contact Jack Lawson of UCCC. Lawson is the man responsible for the community college's musical extravaganzas. After a talk, the consensus of opinion was once again — Why not in Kingston?

It has now happened. Cabaret type entertainment came to the cocktail lounge of The Beef House this past weekend and it should be a winner.

LIFE was there Saturday night. The atmosphere is personalized, music "sets" were built around a central theme and most of the songs were taken from musical comedies. Lawson has constructed the mini revues so that they provide variety, comic routines, serious moments, solos and ensemble singing. It's fun, it's good entertainment and the singers are talented.

The idea is not a new one, even for this area, but somehow the concept has never really caught on with the Kingston area restaurant-goer. And some businesses have been unable to financially carry this type of programming. We don't think this is going to be the case at The Beef House. First, you have the talents of Lawson and his theatrical sense will immediately tell him if something is good or not, and secondly, you have an excellent kitchen in the restaurant which guarantees outstanding food fare. It's a winning team and the only deterent would be an uninterested public.

One evening with 10 singers, who also double as waiters and waitresses, certainly dispels any negative thinking in this direction.

The performers are all people who have worked with Lawson either as students or in one of the musical productions at the college. They are Ken Thompson, Thom Cranna, George Young, Neal Knapp, Ron Esposito, Lita Gonzalez, Roberta Powell, Laura Borzumato, Doreen Shea and Amy Lawson. At the keyboard is Bill Van Keuren.

They sing everything from the Fantasticks, Fiddler on the Roof, Bye, Bye, Birdie, to Damn Yankees, Pajama Game, The King and I, Sound of Music and "crazy songs from that kooky era — the 20's."

While some perform, others wait on tables. The routines are charted to perfection.

The new addition to The Beef House offers a complete evening. And LIFE concurs — if it can be done in New England — why not in Kingston! We think it can.

45 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sottile of 63 Lindsley Avenue cut their wedding anniversary cake during a party held in their honor recently at the Hidden Harbor Yacht Club, Port Ewen. The party was given in observance of their 45th anniversary and was hosted by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Scheffel, also, of Kingston. Approximately 85 relatives and friends attended, including their three grandsons. Mr. and Mrs. Sottile were married Oct. 5, 1930, at St. Mary's Church, Kingston, by the late Rev. William H. Kennedy.

25 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Trowbridge of Woodstock celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary earlier this month. The party was held at the American Legion Hall. Approximately 40 relatives and friends attended the event which was hosted by the couple's three daughters: Miss Karen Trowbridge, Mrs. Lynn Trowbridge, both of Woodstock; Mrs. Terri Manson, Addison, N. Y. The couple celebrated their anniversary with a one month trip to New Orleans. Mrs. Trowbridge is employed by Colonial Insurance Company of Kingston. Her husband is employed by IBM in Poughkeepsie. (Freeman photo)

Couples Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brito of 39 Thomas Street, Rolling Meadows, were honored at a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party recently. The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Ronder at their home, 41 Thomas Street, Rolling Meadows.

The couple has four daughters. Catherine is a senior at Russell Sage College in Troy; Marion is a third year student at Memorial Hospital for Nursing at Albany; Christine and Linda are both students at John A. Coleman High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Brito were married in Ridgewood, Queens.

Approximately 25 friends, neighbors and relatives attended the gala.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. James Scott of Kingston recently celebrated their silver wedding anniversary. A surprise party was given in their honor by their children at American Legion Post in Lake Katrine

Married Oct. 1, 1950 by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly in St. Mary's Church, Kingston, they were attended by Mrs. Mary North and William Scott. Mr. and Mrs. Scott are the parents of three children: Mrs. Barbara Dolan of Sunset Gardens, Kingston, Miss Linda Scott and Robert Scott, at home.

Mr. Scott is employed by the Kingston Police Department.

Many relatives and friends attended the gala and numerous gifts were received.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Joseph Angelillo recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a dinner party hosted by their daughters: Mrs. June LaMarca, Mrs. Lucille Manoni and Mrs. Michelle Schwerdtfeger, and their families. The party took place at Eleven Main Restaurant in Kingston. Among the many friends and relatives in attendance were the Rev. Ralph Florido, R.C. of New York City; Pat LaMarca and William Schwerdtfeger, sons-in-law of the honored couple; their grandchildren, Andrew and Stephen LaMarca, Miss Janice Manoni and Kurt Schwerdtfeger; and Miss Nettis Montaperto, sister of Mrs. Angelillo. Mr. Angelillo is retired after completing 33 years of service to the City of New York Transportation Authority. Mr. and Mrs. Angelillo retired to Big Indian where their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. LaMarca are proprietors of Aley's General Store. Shortly, they will be taking up residence in Kingston where their son-in-law William Schwerdtfeger is a lieutenant on the City of Kingston Fire Department and their daughter Michelle is employed as secretary to Thomas F. Mayone, sheriff of Ulster County.

Joint Concert at Paltz

The Rondo Dance Theatre and the Manhattan String Quartet will perform Saturday, at SUC, New Paltz, with curtain time 8:30 p.m. This will be the first of several joint concerts during the year of the two groups. Along with shorter dance and music selections, one of the works which will take the spotlight will be "Black Angels," choreographed by Kasako Hirabayashi. The performance will be held in the multi-purpose room.

Kids Score Dad for Escorting Secretary

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our mother and father were going to a business meeting last weekend when my mother got the flu and couldn't go. My father's secretary, who had planned to go with them, decided that since she had a reservation, anyway, she would go with my father. She left her husband behind.

They are all good friends, but we all know that she cares about my father. There were lots of people there who know them, and we are sure that my father's being seen with his secretary alone caused a lot of talk.

My brothers and I are very upset that our father would do this to Mom, but none of us is saying anything because it might upset her.

We are 13 and 15. Do you think Dad should have taken his secretary to this affair?

UPSET FAMILY

DEAR UPSET: Since it was a business meeting, and the secretary was going with your parents, anyway, perhaps your father needed her there for business reasons. I'm not sure I know in which way or how much this secretary "cares" about your father and neither do you, so don't jump to conclusions.

It might have looked better, however, had the secretary's husband gone along. But don't sweat it, kids — it could have been entirely innocent.

DEAR ABBY: My problem all started Friday night when I asked my dad if my friend could stay all night. My father said he could if we went to bed at 10.

I said, "Daddy, I'm 12 years old — almost 13," and then he said something to me, and I said, "What?" instead of "Sir?" and next thing I knew he said, "Now, it's 9:00 bedtime for you!"

Then I called him a "retarded ape," which was a big mistake because just for that he said I couldn't have any overnight company.

Abby, I am going to lose all my friends and nobody will every want to stay overnight with me if I have to go to bed at 9:00.

Please help me.

A BABY AT 12

DEAR BABY: If you want to be treated as an adult, start acting like one. And you'd better get over that babyish name-calling bit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO C.L. IN HIGHLAND PARK, ILL.: The quote was: "The person who comes into your company and hogs all the conversation is no less a hog than the person who comes to the table and eats all the food." And I'll accept all the credit — or blame for it.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

About the Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Natheniel S. Phillips of Bloomingdale Road, Tillson, have returned home from a two week vacation in Hawaii where they toured the islands of Oahu, Kaui, Maui and Hawaii.

Christian Women's Luncheon

The Saugerties-Woodstock Christian Women's Club will hold its luncheon Monday, Oct 20, at the Flamingo Rstaurant Route 9W, Saugerties, at 11:30 a.m.

"Local Harvest Time" will be the theme, and will include Marlene Althiser as soloist. Charles Checkley, an IBM engineer, and resident of Saugerties, will present the special feature . . . "A One Man Chain Gang." Checkley is a whittler and whittles chains out of wood. Mrs. Elaine Burnett, chairperson of the Kingston Christian Women's Club, will be the speaker.

All ladies are invited to the luncheon. Tickets and reservations may be obtained by calling Mrs. Maurice Glover of Saugerties, Mrs. Laurence Brooks of Athens or Mrs. Vernon Fairbanks of Woodstock. If cancellation is necessary, one of the above women should be notified. A free nursery is provided for infants and preschoolers. A bag lunch and soft toy should be provided for each child attending.

UNICEF Projects

UNICEF greeting cards, calendars and various gift items will be on sale in New Paltz again this year. November 19-21-22 are the dates designated for booth sales at First National Bank of Highland, Bankers Trust, Great American and upper Grand Union store. Other sales locations will be announced later.

Many community organizations are supporting this sales effort, organized by Faculty Wives Association of New Paltz College.

Anyone wishing a UNICEF brochure or those wishing to order before the sales dates should contact Betty Hain, 144 Canaan Road in New Paltz.

Piano Recital

On Friday, Oct. 24 at 8 p.m., Jacques J. Desy, an area resident, will present a piano recital at the Olive Free Library in West Shokan. He will perform selected works of Beethoven, Chopin, Schumann, Debussy, and Rachmaninoff.

Desy, whose musical education includes studies at Notre Dame College in Montreal and at the U. S. Navy music school in Anacostia, Maryland, serves currently as accompanist for the Mid-Hudson Madrigal Singers.

The recital will be open to the public free of charge.

Unique Sounds at Joyous Lake

WOODSTOCK

Featuring the innovative Harmonica of Peter "Madcat" Ruth and bassist Chris Brubeck, both former members of the "Two Generations of Brubeck" group, the progressive SKY KING rock band with a unique sound will be the next stellar attraction at Joyous Lake Inn in Woodstock.

SKY KING will be at the popular Woodstock nitery on Sunday, Oct 19, and another great night in music and sheer entertainment is in store for those patrons who will be in the audience that night.

The group, cramming as much jazz in the rock focus as possible, disguises the jazz rhythms with a basic rock beat introducing and addicting their listeners to an unusual combination of rock and jazz.

"Madcat" Ruth has played with a variety of musicians — Dave Brubeck, Walter Horton, Paul Siebel, Hound Dog Taylor, David Bromberg, Johnny Shines, Delany and Bonnie and many other top names.

"Madcat" and Chris Brubeck appeared together in the rock band "New Heavenly Blue" and also played together with a touring company of "Jesus Christ Superstar."

The combo of SKY KING, Chris Brubeck and "Madcat" makes it safe to say that Joyous Lake will be jumping come Sunday, Oct. 19, with one of the finest attractions yet billed.

UCCC Delegates

STONE RIDGE

Six officials from Ulster Community College will attend the annual conference of the State University of New York's Association of Boards and Councils of Two Year Colleges Friday in Cooperstown.

Heading the UCCC delegation to the three day affair will be Mrs. George F. Bushnell, chairman of the board of trustees and a member of the association's executive board.

Dr. William J. Hagens, board secretary, will be a panel member Sunday on the topic 'Controlling Costs in an Atmosphere of Collective Bargaining.'

Others attending will be Anne R. Donavan, trustee; Robert T. Brown, college president, and William Ryan, college attorney.

Meeting Again

Republican candidates in the Town of Ulster will meet with town residents for the fourth time Oct. 19 at the Spring Lake Fire House. Attending will be Supervisor Carmine Sabino, Majority Leader Ernest Gardner, and other candidates between 2 and 4 p.m.

County Craftsmen In Bear Mt. Show

Some 20 Ulster County craftsmen will be involved in the fifth annual Invitational Exhibition of the Craftsmen of the West Hudson Highlands scheduled from October 24 through November 2 at the Bear Mountain Inn, Bear Mountain State Park.

The Craftsmen of the West Hudson Highlands group embraces the counties of Ulster, Orange and Rockland and this year's event will take on a bicentennial flavor.

Of the 20 Ulster County craftsmen, eight are from New Paltz, three from Woodstock and the others from Kingston, Bearsville, West Shokan, Kerhonkson, Highland, High Falls, West Hurley, Olivebridge and Accord.

The New Paltz craftsmen include:

Tome and Angela Ambrosina, jewelry. Patricia Banakus, weaver. Beatrice Conover, textiles. Seth Duberstein, potter. Ken Green, potter. Amy LeFevre, potter. Allen Littlefield, potter. Carol Warren, quilter.

The Woodstock craftsmen entered are:

Richard Brandes, jewelry. Syliva Hutchins, potter. Stephen Robin, wood.

Other Ulster County craftsmen include:

Charles and Beverly Barnes, West Shokan, leather. Peter Cannizzaro, Bearsville, leather. Nancy Freeman, Kingston, glass blower. Bernie Murphy Hoffman, Olivebridge, potter. Helen Hosking, Accord, jewelry. Sara and Bernard Morningstar, West Hurley, leather. Gill Wilson, Kerhonkson, potter. Cynthia Winika, Highland, soft sculptured and Frank Wright, High Falls, stain glass.

The popular sales exhibition will show the work of approximately 75 craftsmen residing in the area.

The Oct. 24-Nov. 2 exhibition is being sponsored by the Palisades Park Commission, which operates state parks in the three counties in which the exhibiting craftsmen live and work.

LEE H. PRITCHARD

Camerata Chorale Concert

Aaron Copland's Cantata In The Beginning, with soloist Margaret Clapp, will be the featured work of the Camerata Chorale's opening concert of the current season Tuesday, Oct. 28, in the Multi-Purpose room of the Student Union Building, SUC, New Paltz.

This bicentennial program of American Choral music will be offered in a program starting at 8:30 p.m.

Lee H. Pritchard, Chorale director since 1966 and associate professor of Choral Music and Voice at the college, will direct the colorful program which will be devoted entirely to compositions by American composers from the time of the Revolution to the past.

TERI L. MARCUS

Accepts Violin Position

Miss Teri L. Marcus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marcus, Stony Run Apartments, has accepted a first violin position with the Birmingham, Alabama, Symphony Orchestra.

Previous to accepting this position, Ms. Marcus was on the staff of the Ithaca Talent Education, teaching Suzuki violin in Corning.

A Cum Laude graduate of Ithaca College, Class of 1972, she served as Concertmistress of the college orchestra during 1971-1972 season. While in Corning, she acted as a freelance musician by participating in the Corning, Elmira, Utica, Catskill, Binghampton and Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonics.

Birmingham Symphony, a professional, metropolitan orchestra, performs throughout Alabama from October to May.

Ms. Marcus, a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School, studied violin with Mark Baczynski of Kingston and Frank Mele of Woodstock.

Saugerties DAR Booklet

Members of the Saugerties Chapter, national society of the Daughters of the American Revolution have compiled a bicentennial booklet—The Old Stone Houses of Saugerties—as an honor to the nation's 200th birthday.

The booklet includes 60 photographs and their respective histories.

The non-profit booklet is available at the various banks in Saugerties, BeeVer House, Mrs. Charles Cole's Antique Shops on Old Kings Highway and in Kingston at the Book Center Ulster Shopping Plaza.

Perez Picked Right Time for an Explosion

BOSTON (UPI) — "I don't care if Tony Perez goes zero for the entire series," said Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson prior to the fifth game of the 1975 World Series. "He's still had a great year."

Perhaps so, but Anderson will be the first man to concede today that Perez, the Reds' counterpart to that "other" overpowering Cuban of this series, Luis Tiant, couldn't have picked a more opportune time to snap the most celebrated slump of his 11-year major league career.

Shackled without a hit in his first 15 at-bats against the Red Sox, Perez pickled a pair of 1-2 Reggie Cleveland pitches for successive home runs Thursday night, pushing the Reds to the brink of their first World Series championship in 35 years with a 6-2 win over Boston.

Possessors of a commanding 3-2 edge in games, the Reds need only a victory at Fenway Park Saturday to wrap up their first championship since 1940 when they beat the Detroit Tigers in seven games.

"My wife gave me a pep talk before the game," said Perez, who slammed a solo homer to tie the game 1-1 in the fourth and a three-run shot to put it out of reach in the sixth. "She said it was going to be my day."

Actually, Perez' wife wasn't the only person to offer some pre-game words of encouragement. Anderson, who had outwardly professed a noticeable lack of concern for his big first baseman's slump, continued his reverse psychology.

"Doggie," said Anderson to Perez, "do yourself a favor and don't get a hit for the rest of the world Series. You know those little boys of yours, Victor and Eduardo. If you don't get a hit, they can tell their kids someday Grandpa set a World Series record that nobody else ever touched. Whatd'ya say?"

Perez, of course, was naturally a little confused.

"I don't want the record," he said.

Although Perez' heroics with the bat were what broke the Red Sox' backs, it was the brilliant pitching of Don Gullett that made the win easier.

Gullett, the classy 24-year old southpaw, was touched for a triple by Denny Doyle (which later was turned into the first Boston run) in the first and then didn't yield another hit until Dwight Evans singled with one out in the eighth. At one stage, Gullett retired 16 straight batters, six on strikeouts.

"This was one of the best games I've ever pitched," admitted Gullett, who was finally hooked by Anderson in the ninth when the Red Sox scored again on singles by Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk and a double into the right field corner by Fred Lynn.

"He was tired, plumb tired," said Anderson, never one to hesitate utilizing his bullpen anyway. "Sometimes when he tries for the last out, his pitches straighten out."

Nevertheless, reliever Rawly Eastwick didn't waste a moment in getting the Reds ontc the bus and off to Boston, striking out Rico Petrocelli on three pitches.

"When I get a guy 0-2," said Eastwick, "I don't fool around."

As is so often the case in the World Series, the one possible turning point in the game came on a mistake by the losers.

Leading only 2-1, the Reds put their leadoff runner on base in the sixth when Cleveland walked Joe Morgan on a 3-2 pitch. Johnny Bench then followed by hitting what looked to be a possible double play ball between first and second.

To the delighted bewilderment of the crowd of 56,393, second baseman Denny Doyle broke the wrong way and the ball rolled into right field for a base hit. The ensuing throw from right fielder Evans went over third baseman Rico Petrocelli's head and richocheted off the protective fence in front of the Red Sox dugout, leaving runners on second and third and setting up Perez' second home run.

"I never saw the ball," explained Doyle. "It was about six inches outside and it seemed to come right out of Bench's uniform. I just reacted on wha I thought I saw. That's something that's never happened to me before—at least on an outside pitch."

Booed and hissed after striking out in his first at-bat, Perez almost didn't get his second home run when he hit a foul popup just out of the reach of Fisk in the Cincinnati dugout. But given second life, he then pounded Cleveland from the game with a 400-foot shot over the left-center field fence.

"I don't think Tony deserved something like that," Anderson said. "They booed him in the second and they they cheered him to the rafters after his two home runs. That just goes to show how quickly people change."

The two teams will share a day of rest today before resuming the series on Saturday. The Reds will go with right-hander Jack Billingham in an effort to wrap things up while the Red Sox counter with southpaw Bill Lee to keep their hopes alive for their first World Series championship in 57 years.

MRS. KATHY GULLETT (R) CHEERS ON HUSBAND DON

Reds Near Biggest Prize

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The thoughts were there but the words were coming hard.

It was difficult for Johnny Bench to describe what he was feeling.

"It's almost within touching distance now," he began, hoping that would indicate jut how much he was anticipating that World Series championship that has always eluded him.

"One victory, one victory," the husky catcher repeated to himself in the dressing room late Thursday night. "One win in two games. A win in the final game of the year for us.

"That's beautiful," Bench said slowly, relishing the thought of winning the series this weekend in Boston. "That's really beautiful."

Bench has done a lot for the Reds but he's never been able to help them a world championship.

He blasted 45 home runs in 1970 but that season ended with a World Series loss to Baltimore. In 1972 it was 40 homers and another great year for Bench, but that season also concluded with a series defeat —to Oakland.

But Bench "feels" something different about Boston this year —and he's more than encouraged by the 3-2 game edge Cincy takes into Boston.

"This is the most emotion I've felt after a game in a long time," Bench gushed after Thursday night's 6-2 convincer over the Red Sox. "It's getting exciting now, I mean really exciting. We've been wanting it so much and expecting so much.

But Boston is not crawling back home.

"You don't see a sad face in here, do you?" Dwight Evans said in the Boston clubhouse. "They're a good club, sure, but we know we can beat them at our own ballpark."

Added Rico Petrocelli: "Tomorrow it's a new day and they still have to win that fourth game at our ball park."

It wouldn't have made any difference what ball park the Reds' third victory came in—Don Gullett's pitching and Tony Perez' hitting would have stopped the Sox even in Fenway.

"It was probably one of my better performances," the soft-spoken Gullett said after baffling Boston for eight innings.

Although the fastballing lefty tired in the ninth and had to be relieved, he allowed only two hits in eight innings and in one stretch retired 16 straight batters.

"He was untouchable the first eight innings," praised Boston catcher Carlton Fisk

Perez broke out of a 0-for-15 World Series slump with two homers—a solo shot that tied the game and then a three-run blast that put it away.

"My wife gave me a pep talk before I came to the ball park," said Perez, who was so happy he even let a photographer talk him into kissing his bat after the game. "My wife said it was going to be my day."

Said Bench of Perez' night, "We've finally got the other part of the Big Red Machine going. It's not a real machine unless you've got all the parts working."

Pete Rose had an interesting assessment of Perez' problems at the plate before Thursday night.

"Perez was not in a slump," offered Rose. "He just didn't get any hits.

Psychology Worked on Tony

By Milton Richman

BOSTON (UPI) — The tedium and monotony of a 162game season has a narcotic affect on ballplayers sometimes. It deadens the personal pain of hurting, traveling and losing and dulls most of their daily experiences so that one becomes a repetition of the other.

To alleviate some of this pain, to inject some form of novelty into their routine existence, big league ballplayers agitate each other in a way only they, and not most fans, can appreciate and understand.

That's what the Cincinnati Reds were doing to Tony Perez before the fifth game of the World Series with the Boston Red Sox at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati Thursday night.

Perez was in one of those awful slumps. He had gone to bat 14 times in the first four games with the Red Sox and hadn't come up with anything resembling a base hit.

Ted Kluszewski, the Reds' batting coach, had been working with him. Kluszewski noticed where the big Cuban first baseman was pulling his head off the ball. Perez had been getting jammed with inside pitches and trying to compensate for that, he was pulling his body away. That, in turn, slowed down his bat.

What he needed now perhaps was some sympathy for the tough luck he was having, but he wasn't getting any Thursday night. All he was getting was agitation.

Noticing Perez around the batting cage, the huge, 260-pound Kluszewski, who is built like a brick house, hit him with one of his oak-like elbows. Purposely.

Instinctively, Perez drew back his right hand, balling it up into a fist.

Kluszewski looked at Perez, who wasn't actually angry anyway, and laughed at him.

"I don't have a thing to worry about," he said "The way you've been swinging, you couldn't hit nothing anyway."

Now the Reds went back into the clubhouse.

Tony Perez headed for the players' lounge, hoping to relax a few minutes.

Sparky Anderson came in

The Reds' manager has the same approach Buster Keaton used to employ in all his movies. Sparky Anderson likes to do things dead-pan

"Doggie," he said, addressing Tony Perez "Do yourself a favor Don't get a hit for the rest of the World Series That would be a helluva thing, don't you think? You know those two little boys of yours, Victor and Eduardo, if you don't ge a hit they can tell their kids some day Grandpa set a World Series record nobody else ever touched. Whadd'ya say, Doggie" You gonna do it?"

The nickname "Doggie" originally was hung on Perez by Pete Rose because Rose felt he was like some big dog who kicks, bites and scratches Now Perez was scratching his head over Anderson's suggestion

"I don't want that kind of record," he said

"You don't know what you're saying," Anderson continued applying the needle "Here you are with a chance at the all-time record and you're turning your back on it."

When the game with the Red Sox started Perez struck out his first time up in the second inning

"What did I do wrong?" he asked Kluszewski when he returned to the dugout

"Nothing," answered the Reds' coach, no longer agitating "I think you had a good swing. You didn't jerk your head off the ball."

Perez came up again with two out in the fourth, the Reds trailing, 1-0 He lit into a hanging slider served up by Reggie Cleveland and rocketed it over the left field wall for a home run—his first hit in 16 tries.

There went the record.

In the sixth, here was Perez again with two on, and he belted another home run. This time it was a fast ball he hit The Reds mobbed him when he arrived back at the dugout

"Okay," was all Kluszewski said

Sparky Anderson came over to Perez and said to him

"Doggie, you went and disappointed me I thought you were gonna go seven games without getting a hit"

Tony Perez looked at his manager

"Skip," he said "You crazy!"

Sparky Anderson isn't crazy at all. Just tosy

PETE ROSE IS TAGGED OUT AT PLATE BY CARLTON FISK

Boston's Hopes Ride With Lee

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Even with the pressure of pitching the sixth game of the World Series staring him in the face, the image of Boston left-hander Bill Lee remains intact

Lee, nicknamed "Spaceman" because of his far out ways, perferred to joke about Saturday's game which the Sox must win to stay alive against the Cincinnati Reds, who took a 3-2 edge in games with a 6-2 win Thursday night

"Tomorrow (Friday) is the biggest day of my life" Lee said, "because it's the next one."

Lee, who came within an inning of beating the Reds in the second game in Boston Sunday, eventually won by the Reds 3-2, turned serious for a moment

"I like pressure," he said "I don't know how I'll do but I'll show up."

Lee then alluded to Johnny Bench's ninth inning double in the second game of the series, the hit which knocked Lee from the mound.

"Bench has been going to right field on me so much," Lee said, "he probably has me set up for the wall

Lee was referring to Boston's famed 37-foot high left field wall, known as the "Green Monster"

Asked if the five days between starts would bother him, Lee remarked, "Heck no, I had 23 days rest between starts the last time."

Lee said he threw some Thursday and couldn't get his rhythm

"I couldn't have gotten my mother out today" he said but I'll feel better tomorrow"

What was the key to his success the first game against the Reds?

"I got them out" Lee deadpanned "I don't want to give away any trade secrets It's not every day a mediocre pitcher gets to pitch the sixth game of the World Series

Seriously, bill how about Saturday"

"I'd say I had a 50-50 chance"

Faces Tell the Story

The story of a sports event like the Pan Am Games is always mirrored in the faces of its competitors. In photo at left, the youngest athlete on hand in Mexico City, 10-year-old Francisco Shroder, guides the boat for which he is coxswain on Paraguay team. Paritcipating in the Pan Ams, Shroder has realized the dream of most youngsters "to go to sea". At right, USA's Pamela Jiles (R) and teammate Chandra Cheesbrough console each other after the finish of the women's 200-meter finals. Officials declared Cheesbrough the winner and later presented Jiles with the gold medal. The two exchanged gold and silver medals later in the stands, in a sea of tears. (UPI)

Americans Can't Wait to Go Home

(By UPI)

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Everyone keeps wondering when the feature will begin at the Pan American Games. So far there have been nothing but cartoons.

In a script worthy of Bugs Bunny or Donald Duck, organizers of the Games topped themselves Thursday.

In quick succession:

—An official of the International Track and Field Federation admitted those in charge of the men's discus had erred Wednesday in allowing two Cubans to throw their personal disc. But he said there was nothing he could do about it and the final results were allowed to stand.

—Those in charge of medal presentation ceremonies confused the winner (Chandra Cheesborough) and the second place finisher (Pamela Jiles) and awarded the medals to the wrong girls. Moments later Miss Jiles, edged in a photo finish, held back the tears as she handed her gold medal to Miss Cheesborough.

—Just as Tom Woods was making his third try at 7-4½ in the high jump, a band in the upper deck of Olympic Stadium began to play, announcing another medal presentation. After waiting 15 minutes, Woods made the jump and cleared the bar to win the event.

And through it all there was the continued verbal assault on American athletes by crowds throughout Mexico City, highlighted by the revelation that Clark Scully of Big Island, Va., had been pushed, shoved and spat on while participating in the 20-kilometer walk Wednesday.

"I've been in seven international competitions," said one American wrestler who did not want his name mentioned, "but this is the worst crowd I've ever seen."

Many Americans were so fed up they could not wait to get out of town.

"Most of our people are anxious to get out of here and get home," said 400-meter gold medal winner James King of San Diego, Calif.

"This is all affecting our team morale," said track and field coach Roy Griak. "It is an unfair situation. It is just a small band of people who are doing this but they are affecting the whole team."

The Americans vented their frustrations on the athletic fields, winning eight gold medals—two in track and field (Woods and Miss Cheesborough), four in weightlifting and two in the equestrian event.

That pushed the U.S. up to 26 gold medals, equal with Cuba. But the Americans had an overall medal lead of 65 to 50 over the Cubans.

The American basketball team (3-0) also showed improvement with an 82-73 win over previously undefeated Puerto Rico and the U.S. baseball club shut out Colombia 6-0 for its second win in as many starts.

A comparatively light day is set for today with only 12 gold medals being awarded, three in track and field.

The befuddlement began early Thursday.

After hearing a protest filed by the Americans, a jury of eight officials decided that they would not alter the discus results although Joao DaCosta of Brazil, council for the track federation, admitted the rules had been broken.

John Powell of San Jose, Calif., won the event; Cuban Julian Morrinson, who had used the illegal disc, was second and Jay Silvester of Orem, Utah, was third.

"A games committee member put the disc into competition," DaCosta said. "But there is no question the disc was the personal one of the Cubans, which makes it against the rules. If there is a guilty one, it has to be a member of the organizing committee. When I give my report, I will say that the event should have been rerun."

Powell missed his flight home because of the delay in the ruling.

Moments later, Miss Cheesborough nipped Miss Jiles in a thrilling 200-meter race. It took several minutes for the judges to determine the winner and as they lined up for the medal presentation the two girls were still not certain who won.

But when the officials lined them up for the medals, Miss Jiles was told to stand in the spot reserved for the winner. The gold medal was placed around her neck.

As the girls were walking away from the platform, those in charge began to realize they had made a terrible mistake.

And when the news was broken to Miss Jiles, who two days before had won the 100-meter dash, it was all she could do to keep from crying.

As a result of the incident involving Scully, track and field officials said guards would be stationed along the route of Monday's marathon to prevent another such incident.

One of America's marathoners, Ricardo Rojas of Los Alamos, N.M., said he would not take any abuse from the Mexican crowd.

"If I run a good race and I am booed when I enter the stadium," he said, "I will not show up for the medal ceremony."

Four Teams to Play In Kingston Cage Playoffs

KINGSTON

The Kingston Senior Basketball League Playoffs will take place next week with first place Convenient Food Mart meeting fourth place Edgar's and second place Artie taking on third place Joyous Lake.

CFM won the regular season with seven straight wins. Artie's was one game back and Joyous Lake two games off the pace.

Joyous Lake won its final game of the season to clinch third in the standings. The Woodstock team topped Wack a Tack, 94-45, with Vlad Hoyt scoring 26 points and John Hoyt adding 22.

In another game, Downs St. Driving School took fifth place by trimming Greenkill, 82-63.

The final standings: Convenient Food Mart, 7-0; Artie's, 6-1; Joyous Lake, 5-2; Edgar's, 4-3; Downs St., 3-4; Greenkill 2-5; Smith Grocery, 1-6; Wack a Tack, 0-7.

OCS, Fallsburgh Tie

FALLSBURGH

An improved Fallsburgh High field hockey team played visiting Onteora to a 1-1 standoff Thursday to prevent the now 3-1-1 Indians from gaining ground on 5-0 Red Hook in the Ulster County Athletic League standings.

Sandy Wexler of the Comets and Colleen Duffy of Onteora traded first half goals, and that's the way the scoring ended. A good effort led by halfback Dorian Kruse and Jynn Stoothoff of OCS prevented further Fallsburgh goals while Fallsburgh hustled enough to keep the Indians from additional scoring.

Onteora led the statistical battle, in shots on goal, 12-7, in corners, 9-3, and in penalty strokes, 1-0, and OCS coach Carol Okoren thought, "We should have beaten them. We had better skills, but they're improved. They just hustled and beat us to the ball."

Red Hook stomped New Paltz, 7-0 for its fifth win. New Paltz dropped to 1-3 to remain behind 2-1-2 Fallsburgh in the standings.

UCAL Soccer Roundup

New Paltz Stops Coleman

KINGSTON

"We figured if we could apply the pressure with one or two goals right off the bat, we could do it," said New Paltz High's soccer coach Gene Ventriglia.

Facing once-beaten Coleman Thursday in a UCAL soccer match, the Huguenots followed their pre-game plans to the letter, banging home two first period scores to topple the Statesmen, 2-0, and to open up some breathng room for league leading Onteora.

In other league contests OCS ran its record to 6-0 with a 6-1 triumph over Pine Bush, and Rondout edged Fallsburgh, 2-1.

The win over Coleman didn't surprise Ventriglia. "It was our fifth win in a row," the coach noted. "I can't believe the improvement this team has shown. We have come such a long way defensively that we've only allowed three goals in our last six games. Right now, we feel we can beat anybody."

The Statesmen came into the contest only a game behind Onteora and with a previous victory over New Paltz. The Hugies' Bob Durkin, however, quickly put the losers on notice with an assist to teammate Bob Mertine at 12:30 of the first period and an unassisted goal himself five minutes later.

"And we had other chances to score. We even missed a penalty kick when their goalie made a great save. They didn't really come back at us. It didn't seem like the same Coleman team," Ventriglia said.

New Paltz, which faces Onteora next Tuesday, left the field in a second place tie with the Statesmen at 4-2.

Onteora, meanwhile, pulled away from Pine Bush with a five goal barrage in the second half. "We didn't really play that badly in the first half," said winning coach Ron Valle, "but I told them we stunk at halftime. We did a good job in the second half."

Busey Cottier snapped the 1-1 tie with a penalty kick less than two minutes into the third period, and the Indians were on their way to win number six. Jim Stoothoff and Matt Earnest each scored twice for OCS, and Roger Cilley also booted a goal.

Onteora outshot the Bushmen, 24-4 and had eight corners to none for the losers. Valle tabbed Earnest and Bob Berkeley as standouts.

Ken Dedcker got the Pine Bush goal early in the contest, surprising the inactive OCS defense.

Rondout evened its record off at 3-3 with its second win of the year over Fallsburgh, Steve Priest converted a pass from Tom Byer into a first period score for the Ganders, and Byer rammed home an assist from Mike Mills in the second period to give RVC a 2-0 lead. The Comets spoiled the shutout with an early fourth quarter shot by Pete Dill.

Bruins Miss Orr

(By UPI)

The most valuable player in the National Hockey League is still Bobby Orr — especially when he doesn't play.

The worth of Orr, who will not return to the Boston Bruins for another month following pre-season knee surgery, was demonstrated Thursday night during a seven-minute stretch of a 2-2 tie his team played against the Detroit Red Wings.

It still took Walt McKechnie's second goal of the season with only 3:24 to play give Detroit the tie in the game between two teams which have yet to win their first game of the season.

"I shudder to think what would have happened if we had had Orr," said Coach Don Cherry, whose Bruins are tied with Toronto for last place in the Adams Divison of the Wales Conference. "In fact, I don't even want to think about it. I guarantee you we'd have gotten at least one goal out of that seven minutes. That was the game, right there."

Bryan Watson was penalized five minutes for high-sticking and had two more minutes tacked onto that for taking to referee Wally Harris at the eight-minute mark of the second period.

The Bruins went through the entire seven minutes of having a man advantage—and didn't score. It is difficult to imagine Boston wasting a seven-minute power play with Orr on the ice.

"He is more valuable to Boston than any other player is to any other team in the NHL," said Detroit Coach Doug Barkley. "He has to add 40 to 50 per cent to their hockey play. "We play them again on the 26th and I don't think he'll be ready then. I can't tell you how happy that makes me.

"He's on the ice nearly 50 per cent of the time and when he's got the puck, he's not only dangerous by himself but he creates openings for the other players."

Terry O'Reilly and Phil Esposito set up each other's second goal of the season in the first period after Danny Grant had gotten the Red Wings off to a 1-0 start at the 4:03 mark of the game.

In other NHL action, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 3-2 and Buffalo walloped Chicago 7-1. In the WHA, Winnipeg defeated Denver 7-3 and San Diego blanked Indianapolis 3-0. Flyers 3, Blues 2

Every goal was scored while players were in the penalty box. Bobby Clarke put Philadelphia ahead to stay in the second period 2-1 when the Flyers were down a man. The Flyers, now 4-0, had taken a 1-0 lead on a first-period goal by Gary Dornhoefer and St. Louis tied it on a goal by Gary Unger. Clarke put the Flyers ahead 3-1 on a power play goal at four minutes of the thir period. Sabres 7, Black Hawks 1

Buffalo broke to a 3-0 first period lead on goals by Peter McNab, Craig Ramsay and Jocelyn Guevremont. Chicago's Keith Manuson made it 3-1 but then the Sabres "French Connection" line of Rick Martin, Rene Robert and Gil Perreault added three more with a goal apiece and Danny Gare scored his fifth goal of the season on a short-handed breakaway to complete the scoring. Jets 7, Spurs 3

Veil-Pekka Ketola scored twice in the opening 3:10 and Willy Lindstrom scored a goal and added two assists in the first period in leading Winnipeg to an easy triumph over Denver. Mariners 3, Racers 0

Gene Peacosh scored his fourth goal of the young WHA season and rookie Alex Pidey added two more goals to lead San Diego over Indianapolis. Ernie Wakely got the shutout for the Mariners.

Cosmos Eye Cruyff

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Johann Cruyff, Holland's $2.2 million soccer star, has been approached by the New York Cosmos to join Pele playing in the United States, his former team mate Piet Keizer said Thursday.

Keizer said Cruyff discussed the prospects of joining Pele on the Cosmos with club president, Nesuhi Ertigun, who watched Cruyff help Holland beat Poland, 3-0, Wednesday in the European Nations Cup.

Woman Steward

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Martha V. Oberlies, a deputy steward at Finger Lakes Race Track since 1972, has been named the first woman steward in U.S. race track history, the New York state Racing and Wagering Board announced Thursday.

Mrs. Oberlies, of Pittsford, N.Y., will take over her new duties on Nov. 1 at the Finger Lakes track near Canandaigua.

Hoople Picks Wallkill, Red Hook, Kingston

By Major Amos B. Hoople
Fearless Forecaster

HOOPLE MANOR

Jove, friends, your generosity overwhelms me! Nearly two weeks have passed and still your laudatory messages roll in commending my correctly forecasting the colossal Michigan State 10-3 upset of favored Notre Dame and — to other prognosticators — Grambling's even more amazing 19-12 upending of the Pac 8 Oregon State Beavers.

Pshaw, 'twas nothing really! Loyal followers of the Hoople Forecast can testify we have pegged the big upsets year-after-year— har-rumph! And your fearless forecaster has some more astonishing predictions for you this week, both scholastically and on the collegiate plateau.

So let's dispense with any further chit-chat (sorry, heh-heh, no room for my record again this week). It's on to the week's forecast:

THE OLD BOY HIMSELF

WALLKILL 24, NEW PALTZ 21

Can Wallkill rebound from last week's shutout against Highland? I think they can. But it won't be easy. New Paltz knows a loss here could ruin for good its title hopes. This one should go right down to the wire.

RED HOOK 13, RONDOUT 6

Lo and behold, Rondout scored more than one touchdown last week! But that was against Marlboro. Red Hook, which has a defense nearly as tough as RVC's, moves the ball well and will give the Ganders more than they can handle.

KINGSTON 14, LOURDES 7

Last time (the only time really) I picked Kingston, it was creamed, so I hope this selection isn't the kiss of death. KHS appears to have its gears going smoothly and Lourdes has been sputtering. Make it three straight for the Tigers.

ROOSEVELT 22, SAUGERTIES 8

I can't see picking Saugerties anymore this season unless it suddenly perks up. The Sawyers have to rank as the most disappointing high school football team of 1975.

PINE BUSH 24, ONTEORA 6

Talk about a team that's rolling . . . Pine Bush led by the fantastic Dave Hillriegel is coming on strong. Old Dave is racking up all sorts of yardage against teams with bigger lines than Onteora boasts and could have himself quite a field day against the Indians, OCS, of course, is fresh from that exciting—kackle-kackle—0-0 tie with Ellenville last week.

LIBERTY 28, ELLENVILLE 0

Liberty really is ready to explode. The Redskins gave Pine Bush a rough time last week, and if they play anywhere near their form of that game. Ellenville will go down quietly.

HIGHLAND 18, MARLBORO 12

Highland proved last week that the only thing you can figure about high school football is that nothing figures. How in the world could Highland give up 45 points to New Paltz and none to Wallkill? That's probably what Jerry Trezza, the Panthers coach has been wondering. Anyway, the Big Blue is making a serious run for the UCAL crown and it won't let Marlboro stand in the way.

And now for the college football . . .

Conference races dominate the schedule with the powerful Big 8 having a full slate on tap. Handicapping these contests, and not necessarily in their order of importance, the Hoople System sees Colorado's Buffaloes getting past the Missouri Tigers, 28-21, and Oklahoma State's hard-driving Cowboys shocking the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 23-13.

Oklahoma's Sooners will journey to Manhattan, Kansas, to meet Kansas State and our book shows a Sooner triumph, 30-12. Meanwhile, the Kansas Jayhawks will take the measure of host Iowa State, 21-16.

In the Southeast, Alabama figures to whip Tennessee, 34-21; Georgia should have little trouble with Vanderbilt, winning, 32-14, and Kentucky will take a cliff-hanger from LSU, 15-13.

The big one for the Southwestern Conference matches Texas and Arkansas. The Longhorns, who have dominated the series, will prevail 28-20. Freewheeling Texas A & M will romp over TCU, 42-7, and Rice will make alphabet soup—heh-heh—out of SMU, 36-14.

And in the other games of note it will be: Penn 24, Lafayette 14; Notre Dame 32, Air Force 7; Pittsburgh 35, Army 7; Boston College 29, Navy 21; Yale 17, Columbia 14; Harvard 24, Cornell 21; Brown 16, Dartmouth 8; Michigan 39, Northwestern 10; Michigan State 24, Minnesota 14; Ohio State 42, Wisconsin 14; Colgate 10, Princeton 7; USC 26, Oregon 14; Penn State 25, Syracuse 7; and UCLA 20, Washington State 14, har-rumph!

Nets Trade Ed Manning

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Nets Thursday traded forward Ed Manning to the Utah Stars for a future draft choice and future considerations.

Manning, 32, is an eight year veteran out of Jackson State. He played in the NBA with the Baltimore Bullets and Chicago Bulls before switching over to the ABA in 1971 to play with the Carolina Cougars. He played with the Cougars for three years before joining the Nets last season.

Ali Tops Hickok Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, winner of the Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year award in 1974, topped the monthly poll for September for his dramatic 14th round TKO of Joe Frazier in Manila on Sept. 30.

While Ali finished first in the voting, he was closely pressed by O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills, who has been sensastional in pro football, and by Manuel Orantes, the Spanish tennis star.

Suski Rolls 625, Terpening Hits 621

KINGSTON

There were a pair of 600 series in the Standard Furniture Kingston Booster Bowling League. There were almost three.

Pete Suski had a second game 234 and surrounded that with a steady 197, 194 to rack up the night's best, a 625. Ken Terpening went home with a 621 after a 209 opener and a good 233 finish.

Charlie Teetsel banged a 232 in his first game and rolled a 206 behind it. He needed 162 for the 600 mark, but he missed that by 28 pins. His 572 was fourth best.

Jack Watzka took third place among the individuals with 577 and Newton Madison decked 563 for the number five series. Ken's Grocery at 925, and H. H. Swart at 2709 were the top teams for the night.

In other area action, Walt Dougherty led the Independent Tavern with a 604. Paul Richers topped the Sunday Nite Mixed with a 646. Rose Schatzel led the Bowlerama Women's Major with 211-555. Bob Norton fired a 612 in the Men's Junior Major. Norm Good blasted 240-623 in the Frontier League and Pat Cooney hit 202-512 in the Thursday Afternoon Ladies.

Joyous Lake Triumphs In Double Overtime

KINGSTON

Edgar's battled Joyous Lake into double overtime in the YMCA A basketball league before it failed to score in the second extra session and fell to an 87-79 defeat.

Leading by three points going into the final period, Edgar's saw Joyous Lake tie the game in regulation. After each team had scored eight points in the first overtime, Joyous Lake scored all eight in the second OT to win it.

John Hoyt topped Joyous Lake with 22 points. Steve Peruso of Edgar's had a game-high 28 and Bill Brady added 25.

In other games, Pete Koola's 27 points led Gene Perry's over Smitty's, 80-72, and John McAuliffe hit for a big 26 points as the same Perry's team tripped DeMicco Motors, 112-83, in the A league. In the B league, Bryan Kelly's 19 points paced Olive Cablevision to a 60-49 triumph over Doc Smith's.

PB, NP Top UCAL Statistics

KINGSTON — The running of Pine Bush High's Dave Hillriegel and the passing of New Paltz's Mike Beck have helped lift both squads over the 100 point mark through five games of the Ulster County Athletic League season.

Hillriegel, who leads the league in scoring with 66 points so far, has accounted for 650 of his team's 1099 rushing yards. That's tops in the league, and Hillriegel himself has outrushed six teams.

Beck has hit on 40 of 79 attempts for 392 yards and seven touchdowns. That total has enabled the Huguenots to claim the No. 1 offense in the league, one that has gained 1360 total yards.

Defensively Wallkill has allowed only 27 points in five games, but the Raiders of Red Hook boast a league leading yield of only 131.6 yards per game. Rondout is a close second with a 138.3 yard average for four games.

Connors' Davis Debut

TUCSON, ARIZ. (UPI) — The United States, featuring Jimmy Connors in his first playing appearance, begins its trek to regain the Davis Cup as it takes on Venezuela in 1976 second round competition today.

Connors, the 23-year-old Wimbledon runner-up, meets Humphrey Hose, Venezuela's toprated player, in the second singles match Friday. Roscoe Tanner leads off the day's activities against Jorge Andrew, the number two player in the South American country. Sunday's singles finals see Connors and Tanner changing opponents.

The lone doubles match Saturday pits Eric Van Dillen and Dick Stockton, a strong tandem, against Hose-Andrew. Matches begin at 1 p.m. each day.

The United States is heavily favored against the Venezuelan team but non-playing captain Tony Trabert doesn't consider the matches a push-over.

"It's interesting that when a player is representing his nation in the Davis Cup, often time he plays better than he does normally in tournaments," said Trabert. "We're not taking them lightly at all."

Hose and Andrew are both South American champs and along with third team member Fred Winckleman study at colleges in the U.S. Their coach, veterinarian Angel Garcia, said both men are capable of winning.

Bradley Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Knicks forward Bill Bradley was advised Thursday to avoid basketball until Monday by team physician James Nickolas to protect two recent injuries.

Bradley injured a finger two weeks ago and hurt his elbow in Indianapolis Wednesday just before the exhibition game with the Indiana Pacers. He was kept out of the game and returned here while the Knicks went on to Detroit for a preseason contest with the Pistons Thursday night.

Trevino: 'It's a Turkey Shoot'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lee Trevino called it a turkey shoot and a putting contest and offered to come in three weeks early next year to help Texas Open officials make the Woodlake Golf Club course tougher to attract more top professionals.

"You can get killed coming off that 13th tee over there. It's a turkey shoot," said Trevino. He said because there are no boundary limits in the $125,000 tournament, a player can hit his ball into a farmer's house nearby and play it out of the living room without penalty. He said the only way to get in trouble is to go into the water.

"They got to narrow the fairways and let the roughs grow. I'll come over here three weeks before the golf tournament next year and lay it out for them," Trevino said, warming up for his punch line.

"The reason it's a putting contest is because there is no trouble anywhere else—but I found it."

Despite his criticism of the course, Trevino shot a relatively bloated 71 Thursday and entered today's second round five strokes behind Miller Barber and Gil Morgan who registered 66s. Despite winning numerous prestige tourneys— including the U.S. and British Opens twice—Trevino never has finished better than runnerup in his home state.

Ralph Johnston and Ross Randall ended the day one stroke behind the leaders, while Lionel Hebert, Charles Coody, Richard Crawford, Andy North, Mike Shea and Doug Tewell shot 68s.

Mike Hill, who won the 1972 Texas Open, finished at 69 along with Bruce Fleischer, Wally Armstrong, Peter Oosterhis, Wayne Fenack and Jim Wittenberg.

Defending champion Terry Diehl missed at least 10 birdie putts enroute to a par 72 and 1973 winner Ben Crenshaw tied with Trevino and 17 others at 71.

Both Morgan, 29, a third-year pro from Wewoka, Okla., and Barber, 44, of Sherman, Tex., have some personal reasons for wanting to win the 72-hole tournament.

Morgan, who finished in a tie for fifth in the Texas Open last year, needs to finish in the top three to pick up the $7,000 to $8,000 necessary for him to parlay his present $33,897 into the top 60 money winners and exempt himself from qualifying at next year's tour stops.

"It was my best start this year," said Morgan, now ranked 66th in earnings with his best finish being runnerup behind Bruce Crampton at Houston.

Green Mountain Sets Long Harness Season

POWNAL, VT.—Green Mountain Race Track will conduct its longest harness racing season, spanning a six-month period, when the sulky wheels start spinning at Pownal on Sunday, November 16.

Track president Patrick J. Rooney says that, pending approval of racing dates by the Vermont Racing Commission, Green Mountain's standardbred campaign will continue through April 11.

The stable area will be opened to incoming horsemen on November 13, four days after the completion of the current thoroughbred session.

Green Mountain held its first harness meeting in 1964, but has traditionally been a "winter" track, opening in January or February.

The proposed 1975-76 siege will cover three seasons of the year.

Rooney indicated that stall applications were mailed to horsemen the past weekend and are due to be returned to the racing office by October 25.

The sulkies will race on the 13/16ths mile course, which will be resurfaced following the end of thoroughbred season. Green Mountain abandoned its old 5/8ths harness track last year.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear mother, Jennie E. Tuthill who was called to rest October 18, 1937.
Hold her in Thy loving arms,
Now that she is Thine;
Love her as we always did,
Love that is divine.
Daughter,
Jennie May

Memoriam

In loving memory of Dominick Perry who passed away 15 years ago October 17, 1960.
He suffered patiently, and long,
His hope was bright, his faith was strong,
The peace of Jesus filled his breast,
And in His arms he sank to rest.

Rally For Darling, Johnson

KINGSTON

A rally for Kingston mayoral candidate William Darling and alderman-at-large candidate Emily Johnson is slated for Sunday at 2 p.m. in the parking lot at Kingston Plaza.

Sponsored by "Friends of Darling," the rally for the Republican candidates will feature two horses, one painted pink and one painted green, carrying a sign: "Mayors are mayors, but Bill Darling is a horse of a different color," according to a campaign spokesman.

The spokesman explained that the coloring will not injure the horses.

The candidates will meet on a one-to-one basis to answer any questions persons might have.

Meeting Postponed

The scheduled meeting of the Charter Revision Commission set for Thursday night at city hall was postponed late Thursday afternoon due to the unavailability of charter commission members to preside, a spokesman for the commission told the Freeman. There has been no announcement forthcoming on whether another hearing will be held prior to the charter's submission to public referendum on Election Day.

Deep South Drenched By Storm

MIAMI (UPI) — A Gulf-born tropical depression merged with a cold front as it moved inland over Alabama today, drenching the South with heavy rains and raking the Florida Panhandle and south Alabama with high winds and at least two tornadoes.

Authorities in Mississippi reported at least two deaths attributed to the heavy rains and flooding. A 14-year-old girl drowned while attempting to cross a flooded drainage ditch in Jackson and a traffic death near Madison, Miss., was blamed on the rain-slick roads.

"Heavy rains accompanying this system have occurred over Alabama and Mississippi and are expected to spread over the eastern portions of the Tennessee and Ohio Valleys and the southern Appalachians today," the National Hurricane Center said.

The complex system was expected to move northeast at 20 to 25 miles an hour today and into eastern Kentucky tonight.

Forecasters said sqalls with gusts up to 45 miles an hour laced the Florida Panhandle.

A tornado ripped the top floor off a four-story apartment house near Panama City Beach and destroyed three unoccupied cottages. At Pace, north of Pensacola, a tornado destroyed a trailer home, the Santa Rosa County Sheriff's office reported.

No injuries were reported caused by either tornado.

Tides of two to three feet above normal were reported in nothwest Florida along a stretch of beaches where hurricane Eloise pounded ashore Sept. 23, with 140-milean hour winds.

At Chipley north of Panama City, the Washington County sheriff's office reported flooding up to three feet in low areas, and although some motorists were stranded briefly, no homes were reported flooded.

"I think the rain was worse than it was with Eloise," said a sheriff's dispatcher at Chipley. "It started raining at 11 last night and it's still coming down this morning."

In Alabama, state troopers said the most widespread flooding appeared to be in north part of the state where water covered many highways and secondary roads.

Want More Than Gum

NEW YORK (UPI) — The wrath of young bubble gum-chewing model airplane enthusiasts has grounded Charles Welch of Northport.

The 47-year-old Welch was arraigned in federal court Thursday, accused of reneging on an offer to send model jetliners to 6,000 young bubble gum chewers across the country. He was released on his own recognizance.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Cheryl Schwartz said Welch made an arrangement in August, 1974, with the Topps Chewing Gum Co. to include an offer for a three-model airplane kit with each lump of the firm's Bazooka Bubble Gum.

Under the terms of the offer, the kit — with parts for models of a Boeing 727, a Boeing 747 and a Lockheed 1011 in a box which opened into a simulated airport — could be obtained by sending in 10 gum wrappers plus $1.

Miss Schwartz said Welch stopped delivering the so-called "Bazooka Air Fleet" about a year ago, but did not refund about $6,000 he received for model kits.

When disappointed youngsters complained, postal inspectors checked and traced Welch through the Topps company.

Miss Schwartz said the company got the names of the bubble gummers who had not received their planes and had kits manufactured and mailed to them at its own expense.

Portuguese Rulers Pledge Crackdown

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The military government's powerful Revolutionary Council vowed today to take immediate steps to halt anti-government protests and put a stop to mutinies in the armed forces.

Prime Minister Jose Pinheiro has assigned top priority to the restoration of military and government authority.

The Revolutionary Council said "immediate measures will be taken to guarantee and reinforce the unity, awareness and discipline" in the army which they said was a fundamental force in the fight against counter-revolutionary forces.

The 18-man council issued the communique at the end of a meeting that lasted until early this morning.

The newspaper Jornal do Comercia said the session was disrupted by an attempt to oust Gen. Carlos Fabiao as commander of the army because of his failure to keep his troops under control.

But the newspaper said the effort flopped when President Francisco da Costa Gomes refused to endorse it.

Military insubordination, reflected in the growth of an underground military movement, has caused serious dissension in the upper ranks of the armed forces.

Newburgh Is Death Probe Focus

NEWBURGH — State police investigators were concentrating on the Newburgh area today in their efforts to find the person or persons who murdered a Newburgh patroleum company courier and robbed him of $25,000 in company money.

The body of the courier, Craig R. Mitton, 26, of Hopewell Junction, was found Wednesday afternoon in northern Sullivan County. He had been shot three times, twice in the head and once in the back. The company car he had been driving was found earlier Wednesday in the Ulster County Town of Shawangunk.

Mitton was last seen Monday afternoon when he left for the bank to deposit $25,000.

Police said today they have no new leads in the case.

★★★

Meanwhile, in other area police matters:

Investigation is also continuing into an armed robbery Wednesday night at the Highland Grand Union supermarket. Three black men, ine armed with a sawed-off shotgun, held customers and employes at bay and made off with some $6,500 in cash and checks.

★★★

Kingston police arrested a 26-year-old Saugerties man late Thursday on multiple traffic charges after a brief chase which ended in a collision between the patrol car and the vehicle being pursued.

Thomas J. Sutton of RD 5, Box 23, Saugerties, was charged with speeding, running two red lights and reckless driving.

Police said Patrolman William Wiegert was pursing Sutton at about 70 miles an hour on Washington Avenue near the Thruway traffic circle. When the patrol car pulled next to Sutton's auto, Sutton allegedly swerved to the left and struck the patrol car, police said. Slight paint damage to the patrol car was reported.

There were no injuries in the 10:50 p.m. incident. Sutton was released on $50 bail pending court action.

Setting Straight

In the Freeman article "Exploring the ERA . .." published Wednesday, Oct. 15, page 7, the second paragraph from the bottom should have read:

Dr. Moss and Mrs. Riseley both concurred that the ERA "is in the business of establishing rights, not taking them away . . ."

Mrs. Kathleen Larson, a member of a panel addressing itself to the ERA issue at an open meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Ulster County, was speaking for the opposition.

Mrs. Larson's stand is: "The Proposed ERA, both on the state and federal levels, will neither create new rights nor extend any of these rights women already have."

Auto Club Commends Police

KINGSTON — With the conclusion of the Automobile Club of New York's 30th annual "School's Open—Drive Carefully" campaign, the Kingston Police Department has been commended by the club for its participation in the campaign, according to Police Chief Julius M. Glassman.

Glassman said the club noted that "participation by you and members of your department has added greatly to this important traffic safety program aimed at protecting school children during the school reopening period."

According to the police chief, members of the Kingston Police Department will soon be removing posters in Kingston, bringing the successful campaign to a close.

Glassman pointed out, however, that despite the continued presence of crossing guards, many children must still cross at unprotected corners or may step off the sidewalks between parked cars. He asked motorists to be especially careful when driving in school areas and near parks and playgrounds.

Glassman paid special tribute to residents for their cooperation in making this year's back-to-school period a safe one for the community.

In these history revealing times, when our country, cities and individuals tell of good deeds and good people, we too, are proud to show you a part of our past. Our Dad, Pratt Boice, founded Boice Brothers Dairy in 1914. There are still old timers who remember him with his milk cans and sleigh. signed,

Treatment Center Is Authorized

ALBANY — The Childrens' Home of Kingston has received state authorization to operate a day treatment center on its 26 Grove Avenue campus.

According to information from the New York State Board of Social Welfare, the new program, using parts of two buildings, will serve 14 boys aged six to 12 years.

The corporation, formed in 1877 as the Industrial Home of the City of Kingston, also operates four agency boarding homes, a foster care program and a family services center.

Some developments at other regional facilities under the aegis of the state board include approvals of programs for a Newburgh anti-poverty center and continuance of a Woodbourne, Sullivan County childrens' camp for lower East Side youngsters from New York City.

The board extended for ten years the authority of the Newburgh Community Action Committee to operate its day care center at 139 Lander Street. The corporation was formed in 1965 and has operated the Head Start Center for 15 children since 1970.

The state board also extended for two years the incorporation of Camp Chavatzeleth, an overnight camp for city youngsters. The camp on Hasbrook Road has about 215 campers a year, aged six to 17. The corporation was formed in 1973 as a camp for Jewish Orthodox children, but in 1974 amended its charter to delete references to religious affiliation.

Faculty Seminar Planned at UCCC

STONE RIDGE — Robert Steuding, an Associate Professor of English at Ulster County Community College, will speak next Thursday (Oct. 23) at a faculty seminar on international education at 2 p.m. in the faculty lounge in Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus. His topic will be "Asian Thought and Its Influence on Contemporary American Literature."

The seminar, open to the public without charge, is one of a series beng held in the '75-'76 academic year. Focusing on global trends in education these seminars are designed to bring together a cross section of the faculty for the purpose of sharing major specialized areas.

A resident of Olivebridge, Professor Steuding has been a member of the Ulster County faculty since 1969. He formerly taught at the University of Southern California, the Chinese University of Hong Kong, and Michigan State University, and since 1972 he has been an adjunct professor in the Union Graduate School at Antioch College.

Professor Steuding, who earned his Master's degree from the University of Southern California, is a poet and has written a book, scheduled to be published shortly, on Pulitzer Prize-winning poet, Gary Snyder. He is also doing research on the building of the Ashokan Reservoir for a historical novel to be entitled, "Asokan Reservoir: They Took the Heart and Left Us the Rim."

Fantini Set As Speaker

NEW PALTZ — A noted educator from the State University College at New Paltz has been chosen as the replacement for President Gerald Ford who had to cancel a date as keynote speaker at the Bicentennial Symposium of the Pennsylvania Education Association.

Dr. Mario Fantini, dean of the Faculty of Education at New Paltz, will deliver the Keynote address at the meeting to be held in Hershey, Pa., on Oct. 30.

It is believed that the President's cancellation results from his more limited travel schedule following two assassination attempts.

The symposium, funded in part by the Pennsylvania Bicentennial Commission, features other renowned speakers including CBS news commentator Eric Severeid, Fred M. Hechinger of the New York Times, historian Henry Steele Commager, and Marina Whitman, University of Pittsburgh economics professor and economic advisor to the president.

Fantini has been dean of education at New Paltz since 1970, after having served as a program officer at the Ford Foundation. As staff director of the foundation's Bundy Report and as executive secretary of the Mayor's Advisory Panel on Decentralization of the New York City schools he played a major role in the movement toward community control of the system's schools.

His writings deal principally with school reform and curriculum and teacher preparation.

Project Released

SAUGERTIES — The Saugerties Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) has released "Old Stone Houses of Saugerties Township" as a non-profit Bicentennial project.

The book, jointly authored by DAR members, describes old stone houses in the town and is illustrated with more than 60 pictures.

Several area retailers are cooperating in distributing the book without commissions or fees. It is now on sale at $2.50 per copy at the Bee Ver House and Banks Cards and Books, Saugerties; the Sawyer Country Store, Route 212, Woodstock Road; Mrs. Cole's Antique Shop, Old King's Highway; and the Book Center in Ulster Shopping Plaza, Kingston.

ARIES (March 21- April 19) You're likely to face opposition today from a source you'd least expect. Don't be to harsh. This person has some pressures he's loath to talk about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your time won't be your own today. One who's done you a favor is going to call on you for help. Come through the way he did for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you show favoritism in your little circle of friends today, you could unknowingly wound another's feelings Be balanced in all dealings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) While you know what you should do today, you may yield to pressures and get off course. Follow your own compass for best results.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are hypersensitive today and could read into casual remarks much more than the speaker intends. Ignore what you think you hear.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is the day you must look a gift horse in the mouth. What you feel someone is doing for you may be just a ploy to further his ends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You and your mate will be on different wavelengths today. Guard against embarrassing another by airing your differences in front of her.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Time and energy are not sufficient to permit you to accomplish all the tasks you've set today. Don't bite off more than you can chew and choke on it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Avoid social functions today which include people whose company you don't enjoy. You'll say something sharp to them, then wish you'd bit your tongue.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're an eager beaver to wrap up a deal that's been pending. You're not a good finisher, today. You may talk too much and lose everything.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't challenge a friend today on an issue on which he has very strong opinions. His feelings are already close to the surface. You could bring them to a boil.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Keep on top of obligations. You may wind up with a red face if others have to remind you of what is due them.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D

SWITCH: (Q.) I went with Bob for four months. Then in the summer he got hooked on baseball. He spent more time on it than with me. I decided I was being mistreated.

Then Mark came to my house one evening and asked if I wanted to go swimming. We went and really had fun. The next day we went again and I told him my troubles and after a while we were kissing. I knew then that he had to move away in two months, but at the time it didn't bother me. So I broke up with Bob.

Now that Mark has moved and baseball is over, I want to get back with Bob. I still love him and I'm sure he has feelings for me. How do I get him back?—Not Angry Now in Pennsylvania

(A.) You made a decision about Bob. He accepted it. A decision once made and accepted sometimes can't be reversed. You could apologize to Bob and tell him you made a bad decision. But I don't believe that would be the truth because you don't seem to feel that you did.

The only thing left is to tell him that you've had your fun with Mark and now Mark's gone and you're seady to take him back. I don't believe Bob would like that. So just leave him alone.

IGNORED: (Q.) I am 13 and am in love with Pat, our youth counselor at church. The problem is he is 21. He looks at me as if I don't exist. What should I do to get his attention? If he doesn't notice me soon I may commit suicide.—Unwanted In Louisiana

(A.) I'm sure Pat is cute, but try to be realistic. He doesn't think of you as a possible girl friend because he is eight years older than you are. To him you are a child.

He is also probably very serious about his work and concentrating on that rather than love affairs. Forget him except as a counselor. Forget suicide, too, and put your eyes on some of the boys at church of your own age.

(Want printed answers to your questions on shyness and dating? Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas, 77001. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Deceptive Lead Pays Off

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Even if Holmes had elected to pass his 12-high-card points he would have wound up in three notrump.

As anyone can see a spade lead and heart return would beat him two tricks But no one can really find fault with Scurry's choice of a heart. After a heart lead it would have been a simple matter for the great detective to make four odd by means of successful diamond finesses, but he managed to wind up one in the soup

It seems that Scurry led his deuce of hearts instead of the conventional fourth best. Holmes' queen covered East's 10 and he led a club to dummy's king East took her ace and led back the five of hearts

Holmes took his ace and went into deep thought. That five could have been the lowest from an original holding of jack-10-6-5. In that case the deuce of hearts would have been from King-4-3-2 Holmes decided that was the case so he led a spade to knock out that ace and insure his contract against the expected 4-4 heart break

Scurry's little bit of deception had paid big dividends

Overtime In The Car Industry Helps Nation's Economic News

The nation's industries have quickened production at the fastest pace in almost 11 years and "Help Wanted" signs are popping out, according to reports from government and industry.

The four auto makers said more than 4,600 workers will be hired next week to meet overtime demand for hot-selling mid-sized cars, vans and luxury sedans.

The industry has not worked as much overtime since the start of the Arab oil embargo in late 1973 that touched off the worst economic recession since the 1930s.

The news from Detroit Thursday was followed by federal government reports that jobless benefits declined for the third straight week and industrial production increased 1.9 percent in August.

The Federal Reserve Board said it was the biggest onemonth increase in the physical output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities since a 2.8 percent gain in November, 1964, after an auto workers' strike ended.

The Labor Department said 5.4 million persons were receiving jobless benefits in the week ending Sept. 27, the lowest number in nine months.

General Motors chairman Thomas Murphy said sales of 1976 cars should increase 21 percent over 1975 models from now to Dec. 31. Sales should be at an annual rate of 12 million cars compared with 9.5 million in last year's fourth quarter, Murphy said in a speech in Anaheim, Calif.

The surge in auto sales and industrial production means factories and mines will pick up the tempo of rehiring among the three million workers who lost jobs in the past 18 months.

The Federal Reserve said the gains were "substantial and widespread" and included production of consumer goods like autos, household appliances, carpeting, drapery materials and clothing, and industrial materials such as steel, paper, chemicals and textiles.

Other developments:

— Consumers earning at least $10,000 a year feel the economy is worse off now than it was six months ago during the recession, according to a a poll by First National City Bank of New York.

— Alcoa said the aluminum industry is still in a recession. "Our business is flat. Market conditions are still weak," the nation's largest aluminum manufacturer said in an earnings report released in Pittsburgh.

— On the New York Stock Exchange, a late selling wave wiped out most of Thursday's earlier gains to leave prices slightly higher in moderate trading. The Dow Jones industrial average, ahead more than eight points, closed up only 0.63 at 837.85. Prices were unchanged on the American Stock Exchange.

Welfare Costs Over $22 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Welfare costs this year surpassed $22 billion — up more than 20 percent over the last fiscal period.

Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates released Thursday showed the increase amounted to nearly $3.8 billion over the $18.8 billion required in the 1974 fiscal year.

HEW estimated welfare programs cost $22.6 billion for the 1975 fiscal year ended June 30.

All 26 welfare indicators rose including money payments to recipients, numbers of children and adults on welfare, emergency aid to families, medical care and local charity, HEW said.

The rising welfare costs accompanied national economic problems including inflation and rising unemployment.

Newest estimates indicate welfare costs still are soaring. Federal and state spending on aid to needy families, welfare services and medical care for the poor reached a record monthly high of $2.1 billion in June, a 23.5 percent jump from June, 1974, HEW reported.

The cost increase in June, latest month for which national statistics are available, was spurred by increasing costs of Medicaid health care to the needy, HEW said. Health care has been one of the most inflationary sectors in the economy, according to government economists.

President Ford Tuesday told reporters "there would have to be some caps" on spending for social programs like Medicaid and Medicare health insurance for the aged. He said his cabinet officers and agency heads have received a list of projected cuts in the federal budget for fiscal 1977 totaling more than $28 billion.

HEW said total welfare costs rose in June despite a decline for the second consecutive month in numbers of persons on welfare. There were 11,303,634 persons in 3,478,260 families receiving welfare aid in June, which was 50,289 fewer persons than in May. The two-month decline in rolls follows a steady nine-month increase that began in August, 1974.

Although welfare rolls have a seasonal tendency to fall in June, HEW's top welfare administrator John Svahn said: "I think we must give some credit for this decline to the country's improving economic condition and to the continuing federal-state effort to improve the management of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program."

Jaworski Disagrees With Final Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The departing Watergate prosecutor's recommendation that the Constitution be changed to spell out when a president may be charged with a crime has drawn sharp opposition.

Even Leon Jaworski — whose decision it was not to indict President Richard M. Nixon in the Watergate coverup because he feared constitutional repercussions — spoke out against changing the Constitution.

Others opposed to the recommendation by Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth Jr. included former Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Sente Watergate committee, and Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., a ranking member of the House Judiciary Committee that voted for Nixon's impeachment.

A spokesman said Ruth accepted responsibility for the proposal in the final Watergate report, but he declined to say who originated the idea. Both Archibald Cox, the original special prosecutor, and Jaworski submitted "a variety of comments" before the report was published, the spokesman said, but he would not elaborate.

Ruth has resigned the office as of today to join the Urban Institute. He will be succeeded by Charles F.C. Ruff, a staff attorney who will handle remaining cases and appeals on a part-time basis.

"The mere fact of a constitutional amendment isn't going to help that much," said Jaworski, who was special prosecutor during the height of the bugging scandal. "I would have not made that recommendation if I had written the report."

Cox refused to comment.

The report, released this week and summarizing work of the special prosecutors over the last 28 months, concluded in part that the Constitution should be amended to clarify whether a president may be charged with a crime without first being impeached.

It said Jaworski believed there was no constitutional bar to indicting Nixon but recommended against it because he feared the Supreme Court would overturn the action, perhaps impeding Nixon's impeachment. The grand jury settled for naming Nixon an unindicted coconspirator.

The Constitution is silent on whether a president may be indicted for a crime like any other citizen — saying only that a president who is removed from office by impeachment "shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment according to law."

Ervin and Edwards both said this clearly means there is no prohibition against indicting a sitting president and said no change is needed.

"We got along without prosecuting a president for almost 200 years and there's no need to amend the Constitution for something that may not happen for another 200 years," said Ervin, now retired from the Senate and living in Morganton, N.C.

Edwards, chairman of a constitutio nal amendments subcommittee, said there would be a staff study but added a warning: "It seems to me if we made it a special part of the Constitution that a grand jury could indict the president it might be seen as some kind of license ... you have grand juries all over the country, federal and local grand juries. Someone could get off base."

"Since I was a kid, I've had a thing about animals.

So I guess when I decided to become a veterinarian, no one was very surprised!

The only thing Dad said was that it takes a long time and a lot of money.

Well, the first thing we did was to rename my savings account the "I'll be a vet yet" fund. Then Dad took me down to our Statewide office to talk to them about student loans. Dad covered everything.

Now all I have to do is get through high school."
